Reports of Cases in Criminal Law Argued and Determined in All the Courts in England and Ireland Edward William Cox, 1871 Cox's Reports of Cases in Criminal Law Argued and Determined in the Courts of England Great Britain. Courts, 1871 The journal of criminal law , 2004 Bowker's Law Books and Serials in Print , 1995 The Weekly Reporter , 1868 Sounds of Silence Idir Peçi, 2006 The subject of this thesis is the relationship between administrative supervision criminal investigation and the nemo tenetur principle The point of departure is the distinction made in Dutch law and doctrine between administrative supervision and criminal investigation Such a distinction is often made in the area of the enforcement of socio economic regulatory legislation where supervision and investigation are perceived as isolated phases of the regulatory process The supervision phase gives way to the investigation phase as soon as a suspicion that a criminal offence has been committed arises Initially one of the main arguments in favour of the distinction seems to have been that a citizen's obligation to provide information to the supervising authorities conflicts with a suspect's right to remain silent during the investigation phase Therefore the central question of this study is whether it is necessary to have a strict demarcation between administrative supervision and criminal investigation in order to better respect the nemo tenetur principle The Criminal Law Quarterly , 2006 Evidence Hamish Stewart, 2002 The Queensland Law Society Journal Queensland Law Society, 1995 The Solicitors' Journal , 1997 Archbold , 1993 The Publishers' Trade List Annual , 1989
