Guns and Governance in the Rift Valley Kennedy Mkutu,2008 Recent estimates indicate that more than 640 million small arms and 16 billion rounds of ammunition circulate the globe yearly In North East Africa and the Rift Valley the flow of arms has been particularly heavy and has led to the escalation of banditry cattle rustling raiding and ethnic conflict The impact small arms have on the area according to Kennedy Agade Mkutu is a symptom of the failure of states to govern and of superficial programs that focus simply on disarmament In this hard hitting book Mkutu brings together all the issues affecting the arms trade from the regulation of international arms sales to regional efforts to improve security community involvement and economic development He cites cultural changes to the legacy of pastoral violence in the region as key ingredients in stemming the disastrous spread of small arms

Civil Society and Ethnic

Conflict Management in Nigeria Thomas A. Imobighe, African Strategic and Peace Research Group, 2003 This book represents a serious attempt to develop new strategies to manage the ethnic conflicts that continue to undermine Nigeria's efforts at democratic consolidation Case studies discuss the socio economic and political dynamics that fuel ethnic conflicts highlight the limitations to their management and propose civil society approaches The book is organised into three parts The first analyses basic concepts at play such as ethnicity and ethnic conflict specifically in the Nigerian context and against the background of the position of civil society and development in the country The second part comprises six case studies spread across Nigeria's six geo political regions The third section concentrates on the critical issue of civil society empowerment and proposes ways to enhance its creative participation in the country's development The Complexity of Ethnic Conflict. Hema and Lendu Case Study Nelson Tusiime, 2019-06-25 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2019 in the subject African Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade A Malm University Global Political Studies course International Migration and Ethnic Relations language English abstract This research paper investigated the Hema and Lendu conflict in the Democratic Republic of Congo from 1999-2003 Five significant theories Primordialism constructivism instrumentalism greed and grievances were applied to explain the causes of this conflict and to find out the role ethnicity played in triggering the conflict Using secondary data a single case study was conducted and results show that colonialism inequality poor government policies greed from local and external forces are the primary causes of this conflict Based on the results one theory on its own is not substantial enough to explain the cause of this conflict since it was triggered by a combination of different factors However the Hema and Lendu did not fight because of their ethnic differences Ethnicity was used by militia leaders as a tool for mobilisation thus ethnicity being a secondary factor and not a driving force Therefore ethnicity did not play a significant role in triggering this conflict Terrorism and Transnational Security Threats in West Africa: Adebayo E. Adeyemi PhD, 2015-09-18 While it could be arguably stated that West Africa has achieved remarkable and sustainable progress in the areas of democratic governance and economic growth the subregion over the past few years has been challenged by terrorism and other transnational security threats Innocent civilians are continuously killed security operatives and providers of humanitarian assistance are targeted and properties and infrastructures are wantonly destroyed thus culminating in significant displacement of people and acute poverty If these developments are not carefully and timely addressed they are capable of eroding progress so far recorded It is against this background that this book examines the different manifestations of terrorism and related transnational security challenges in West Africa with a view to exploring the internal and external sources and drivers of instability establishing the linkages between terrorism and transnational threats and reviewing the various steps taken in recent time to strengthen the subregions capacity to prevent and address the menace of terrorism and other security challenges and make necessary policy recommendations based on comprehensive best practices The Palgrave Handbook of Small Arms and Conflicts in Africa Usman A. Tar, Charles P. Onwurah, 2021-04-05 This handbook provides critical analyses of the theory and practices of small arms proliferation and its impact on conflicts and organized violence in Africa. It examines the terrains, institutions, factors, and actors that drive armed conflict and arms proliferation and further explores the nature, scope, and dynamics of conflicts across the continent as well as the extent to which these conflicts are exacerbated by the proliferation of small arms. The volume features rich analyses by contributors who are acquainted with and widely experienced in the formal and informal structures of arms proliferation and control and their repercussions on violence, instability, and insecurity across Africa. The chapters dissect the challenges of small arms and light weapons in Africa with a view to understanding roots, causes, and drivers and generating a fresh body of analyses that adds value to the existing conversation on conflict management and peacebuilding in Africa. With contributions from scholars, development practitioners, defence and security professionals, and civil society activists, the handbook seeks to serve as a reference for students, researchers, and policy makers on small arms proliferation, control, and regulation, defence and security practitioners, and those involved in countering violence and managing conflicts in Africa. Peace Research Abstracts Journal, 2002

The Small Arms Problem in Central Asia Bobi Pirseyedi, United Nations Institute for Disarmament Research, 2000

Increasingly, the use of armed force has become a feature of internal conflicts. This study examines the different dimensions of the small arms problem in Central Asia and its links with crime, corruption, and violence in the community. Encyclopedia of the Developing World Thomas M. Leonard, 2013-10-18. A RUSA 2007 Outstanding Reference Title. The Encyclopedia of the Developing World is a comprehensive work on the historical and current status of developing countries. Containing more than 750 entries, the Encyclopedia encompasses primarily the years since 1945 and defines development broadly, addressing not only economics but also civil society and social progress. Entries cover the most important theories and measurements of development, relate historical events, movements, and concepts to development both internationally and regionally, where applicable, examine the contributions of the most important persons and organizations, and detail the progress made within geographic regions and by individual countries. Restructuring the Global Military Sector: New Wars Mary Kaldor, Basker Vashee, 1997. Since the mid-1980s, there have been substantial cuts in military spending everywhere except Pacific Asia. The reasons are both political, such as the end of the Cold War, democratization in Africa and Latin America, and economic, with structural adjustment programmes, debt, and cuts in public spending. This is the first volume of a study by the United Nations University to investigate the changes taking place world-wide in armed forces, arms industries, and all other military-related activity. The main conclusion of the study is that a fundamental transformation is taking place in the nature of warfare. It argues that recent wars arose from the disintegration of state structures. Participation in wars is low compared with earlier wars, as are casualties. However, the new wars are very disruptive in social terms. The book argues that it is possible to identify a certain logic to the new wars which can be analyzed so as to provide a basis for alternative forms of conflict prevention and resolution. Journal of Peace Research, 2002-07 NIDS Security Reports, 2004 Congressional

Record United States. Congress,1995 Adili ,2002 The Three Images of Ethnic War Querine Hanlon,2009-04-30
Why do ethnic groups adopt violent means In the 1990 s ethnicity emerged as the principle source of organized violence around the world Ethnic wars were no longer internal conflicts between substate actors instead they challenged state sovereignty and taxed the international community s ability to respond Efforts to understand ethnic conflict remain divorced from the study of systemic change and the declining authority capacity and legitimacy of weak multiethnic states This work proposes that the phenomenon of ethnic violence must be understood through a multilevel approach and that finding a solution to ethnic violence is possible only if we have a clear understanding of the sources that spark such violence in the first place The Three Images of Ethnic War identifies the causes of ethnic war at three levels of analysis the group the state and the international These are the three images of ethnic war This book places the outbreak of violence within context of the state and the international system in which the violence unfolds Hanlon examines three violent ethnic wars in Yugoslavia Nagorno Karabakh and Iraq Yugoslavia s violent ethnic wars the war over Nagorno Karabakh and the violent conflict between Kurds and Arabs in Iraqi Kurdistan demonstrate that ethnic violence is a complex and multifaceted occurrence Hanlon argues that the numerous reasons why groups adopt violent means can only be understood through a multilevel framework of the three images of ethnic war and the interrelationship among them Ethnicity, Conflicts, and Consensus in Ghana Steve Tonah,2007
