Voyage of the Beagle Charles Darwin,2009-09 Darwin's travels around the world as an independent naturalist on H M S Beagle between 1831 and 1836 impressed upon him a sense of the natural world's beauty and sublimity which language could barely capture Words he said were inadequate to convey to those who have not visited the inter tropical regions the sensation of delight which the mind experiences Yet in his travel journal which takes the reader from South America to the South Sea islands Darwin's descriptive powers are constantly challenged but never overcome The Voyage displays Darwin's powerful speculative mind at work posing searching questions about the complex relation between the Earth's structure animal forms anthropology and the origins of life itself Illustrations
