Art And Intention:

Art and Intention Paisley Livingston, 2005-02-17 Do the artist's intentions have anything to do with the making and appreciation of works of art In Art and Intention Paisley Livingston develops a broad and balanced perspective on perennial disputes between intentionalists and anti-intentionalists in philosophical aesthetics and critical theory He surveys and assesses a wide range of rival assumptions about the nature of intentions and the status of intentionalist psychology With detailed reference to examples from diverse media art forms and traditions he demonstrates that insights into the multiple functions of intentions have important implications for our understanding of artistic creation and authorship the ontology of art conceptions of texts works and versions basic issues pertaining to the nature of fiction and fictional truth and the theory of art interpretation and appreciation Livingston argues that neither the inspirationist nor rationalistic conceptions can capture the blending of deliberate and intentional spontaneous and unintentional processes in the creation of art Texts works and artistic structures and performances cannot be adequately individuated in the absence of a recognition of the relevant makers intentions The distinction between complete and incomplete works receives an action theoretic analysis that makes possible an elucidation of several different senses of fragment in critical discourse Livingston develops an account of authorship contending that the recognition of intentions is in fact crucial to our understanding of diverse forms of collective art making An artist's short term intentions and long term plans and policies interact in complex ways in the emergence of an artistic oeuvre and our uptake of such attitudes makes an important difference to our appreciation of the relations between items belonging to a single life work The intentionalism Livingston advocates is however a partial one and accommodates a number of important anti-intentionalist contentions Intentions are fallible and works of art like other artefacts can be put to a bewildering diversity of uses Yet some important aspects of art's meaning and value are linked to the artist's aims and activities

Intention Interpretation Gary Iseminger, 2010-08-12 an excellent and comprehensive discussion of a debate that was initiated in this century in William Wimsatt's and Monroe C Beardsley's influential article The Intentional Fallacy this is a splendidly conceived and very useful collection of essays Readers will want to take issue with the arguments of individual authors but this is to be expected in a volume at the cutting edge of a fertile philosophical controversy David Novitz The Philosophical Quarterly What is the connection if any between the author's intentions in while writing a work of literature and the truth acceptability validity of interpretive statements about it With this question Gary Iseminger introduces a literary debate that has been waged for the past four decades and is addressed by philosophers and literary theorists in Intention and Interpretation Thirteen essays discuss the role of appeals to the author's intention in interpreting works of literature A well known argument by E D Hirsch serves as the basic text in which he defends the appeal to the author's intention against Wimsatt and Beardsley's claim that such an appeal involved the intentional fallacy The essays mostly commissioned by the editor explore the presuppositions and consequences of arguing for the importance of the author's intentions in the way

Hirsch does Connections emerge between this issue and many fundamental issues in metaphysics and the philosophy of mind as well as in aesthetics The old New Criticism and current Post Structuralism tend to agree in disenfranchising the author and many people now are disinclined even to consider the alternative Hirsch demurs and arguments like his deserve the careful attention both from critics and sympathizers that they receive here Literary scholars and philosophers who are sympathetic to Continental as well as to Anglo American styles of philosophy are among the contributors This is a timely book appearing as it does when postmodernist views of the death of the author are disappearing quickly from the scene As a collection it exemplifies the best work that is being done on this problem at the moment and it will no doubt inspire further debate The Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticism T his volume contains important articles illuminating the central debate over the role and relevance of authorial intentions in literary interoperation British Journal of Aesthetics Attempting Art Michel-Antoine Xhignesse,2017 Attempting art an essay on intention dependenceIt is a truism among philosophers that art is intention dependent that is to say art making is an activity that depends in some way on the maker s intentions Not much thought has been given to just what this entails however For instance most philosophers of art assume that intention dependence entails concept dependence i e possessing a concept of art is necessary for art making so that what prospective artists must intend is to make art And yet a mounting body of anthropological and art historical evidence and philosophical argument suggests that not only is such a criterion unsatisfied by most of the art historical canon but it also rests on a false premise concepts of art are not shared between cultures nor even in the same culture across time My dissertation aims to rectify this error by first exploring what our commitment to art s intention dependence actually entails and then showing that properly understood intention dependence sets a number of important constraints on theories of art with respect to explanatory desiderata such as the success and failure conditions of art attempts the cross cultural identification of art and the reference of art and art kind terms I begin by situating art s intention dependence in the philosophical literature on intentional action arguing that properly conceived intention dependence is a weak criterion which can be satisfied either directly or indirectly It therefore does not necessarily entail concept dependence I then use this distinction to motivate a new treatment of the success and failure conditions for art attempts arguing that the extant model s emphasis on compliance with the manner intended is far too restrictive to capture actual artistic practices I go on to show that Ruth Millikan s model of linguistic conventions supplies an independently plausible explanation of art s concept independent origins in terms of the development of a system of indirectly intention dependent conventions called an artworld I argue that this account of artworld development supplies us with the tools we need to distinguish art kinds from other artifactual kinds Finally I turn my attention to methodological issues arguing that even though art is a social kind with its roots in arbitrary and historically contingent networks of conventions the philosophy of art is not merely an exercise in bare conceptual analysis In fact there is now a great deal of evidence to show that the ways we think about art are inconsistent incomplete imperialistic and largely unprincipled Yet I argue that this does not mean that the artworld data have no bearing on theories of art Instead I argue that our best reflective understanding of our artworld practices sets the constraints on the reference of art and art kind terms I argue that we have no privileged epistemic access to the ontology of social kinds our only privilege lies in our ability to determine the proper subject of our inquiries
