Dumping A Problem In International Trade:

Dumping Jacob Viner,1923 Dumping : a problem in international trade Jacob Viner,1923 Antidumping Maurizio Zanardi,2013 When in 1923 Jacob Viner wrote the book Dumping A Problem in International Trade he probably did not imagine that the system put in place to eliminate the effects of dumping i e antidumping would surge to be a problem However as we celebrate the 100th anniversary of the first antidumping law the situation is quite different from what Viner could observe at the beginning of last century And if his economic analysis on the nature and causes of dumping is still valid since the early 1990s the debate has centered on the widespread use and consequences of antidumping which is just a modern protectionist tool used by many countries This paper documents the evolution of antidumping from its early days by looking at the number of countries adopting antidumping laws and various statistics pertaining to the total caseload One striking result is the important role of new users of antidumping with negative consequences not only for traditional users
