

DYLAN THOMAS
COLLECTED POEMS
1934-1952

'At his best he is unique, for he distils an exquisite mysterious moving quality which defies analysis as supreme lyrical poetry always has and —let us hope—always will.'
CYRIL CONNOLLY, Sunday Times

'Seeing the scope and intensity of the total work it need no longer be eccentric to claim that Thomas is the greatest living poet in the English language. . . . His language is seldom colloquial, nearly always in the grandest of grand manners, yet he is an adept at transforming an old and dead familiarity.'
PHILIP TOYNBEE, Observer

'In this critical situation [of English poetry] the appearance of Mr Dylan Thomas's Collected Poems 1934-1952 is a delightful event. The fact that Mr Thomas has omitted virtually nothing from this collection that he has published in his earlier volumes gives it an added interest. . . . It is encouraging to notice that a surprising number of his best poems are not obscure at all, and may be enjoyed by anyone who has the humility to approach a new poet in the expectation of finding something different from that which other poets have given him.'
The Times Literary Supplement

'The appearance of the collected poems of Dylan Thomas is by any standards an important literary event. . . . of the younger generation of established poets, Dylan Thomas seems to me far the best—the most exciting, the most original, with the fullest and grandest command of language.'
GRAHAM HUGHES, B.B.C. Broadcast

'Mr Thomas is the most richly endowed of the poets of his generation. His genius is still throwing out rare and surprising inventions. One feels that he will be remembered among the English poets.'
EDWIN MUIR, Britain To-day

'Most impressive. Mr Thomas is not afraid of traditional forms and he is willing to experiment at times. . . . His imagery is clear out and striking, and his inspiration is authentic.'
ERIC GILBERT, National and English Review
