Angel of the Abyss Michael O' Graves,2008-08 This is a time when life meets up with the mystical power of one's inner soul that becomes lost in a very troubled world and the hazards it must travel to find a way back to what should have been. This was the case of a young girl beautiful Jomida who was taken to a place where she did not belong. Not knowing who she really was she felt lost and confused. She did not understand why she felt out of place. She only had one clue to find out who she really was. This brought her to a quest to finally answer the calling that had awakened her from the sea of knowledge. To this very day there is still a place yet unspoiled by man that holds the key for her. Time is running out. Angel of the East Indies Dino Fanara,2006-11-07 Angel of the East Indies is about two young people growing up in the simplicity of the Dutch farming community prior to World War II that fall in love only to get separated when one of them joins the military. Their reunion in the Dutch East Indies is unforgettably romantic. Their world is torn apart when the war breaks out. Hendrika's courage and faith aids her family through their arduous imprisonment at the hands of their ruthless captors. This historically accurate drama is full of suspense, romance, and action that introduce you to the customs of living on a Dutch farm and life in the Dutch East Indies before, during, and after the war.

The Angel of Dien Bien Phu Genevieve de Heaulme,2010-10-15 Genevieve de Galard was a flight nurse for the French Air Force who received the name of the Angel of Dien Bien Phu during the French war in Indochina. She volunteered for French Indochina and arrived there in May 1953 in the middle of the war between French forces and the Vietminh. Galard was stationed in Hanoi and flew on casualty evacuation flights from Pleiku. After January 1954 she was on the flights that evacuated casualties from the Battle of Dien Bien Phu. Her first patients were mainly soldiers who suffered from diseases but after mid-March most of them were battle casualties. Sometimes Red Cross planes had to land in the midst of Vietminh artillery barrages. On March 27, 1954, when a Red Cross C-47 with Galard aboard tried to land at night on the short runway of Dien Bien Phu, the landing overshot and the plane's left engine was seriously damaged. The mechanics could not repair the plane in the field so the plane was stranded. At daylight Vietminh artillery destroyed the C-47 and damaged the runway beyond repair. Galard went to a field hospital under command of doctor Paul Grauwain and volunteered her services as a nurse. Although the men of the medical staff were initially apprehensive she was the only woman in the base they eventually made accommodations for her. They also arranged a semblance of uniform: camouflage overalls, trousers, basketball shoes, and a t-shirt. Galard did her best in very unsanitary conditions, comforting those about to die and trying to keep up morale in the face of the mounting casualties. Many of the men later complimented her efforts. On the 29th of April 1954, Genevieve de Galard was awarded the Knight's Cross of the Legion d'Honneur and the Croix de Guerre. It was presented to her by the commander of Dien Bien Phu, General de Castries. The following day, during the celebration of the French Foreign Legion's annual Camerone, de Galard was made an honorary Legionnaire de 1<sup>re</sup> classe alongside Lieutenant Colonel Marcel Bigeard, the commander of the 6th Colonial Parachute Battalion, French troops at Dien

Bien Phu finally capitulated on May 7 However the Vietminh allowed Galard and the medical staff continue to care for their wounded Galard still refused any kind of cooperation When some of the Vietminh begun to hoard medical supplies for their own use she hid some of them under her stretcher bed On May 24 Genevieve de Galard was evacuated to French held Hanoi partially against her will The American press gave her the name Angel of Dien Bien Phu She was given a tickertape parade up Broadway a standing ovation in Congress On 29 July 1954 President Eisenhower awarded her the Presidential Medal of Freedom during a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden She currently lives in Paris with her husband THE ANGEL OF SERVITUDE THE ANGEL OF SERVITUDE,2021-04-25 A story of a love that lasted a lifetime With sublime eroticism and a crime that made an innocent pay with her life Sick revenge This novel will motivate you to write and create your own ending
