Description Each of the young Anglicans who write on the Five Marks of Mission were at the Edinburgh 2010 conference in June of that year The articles were then reworked in Toronto a year later so what you read here is the fruit of much labor writing and rewriting These articles are also open and honest reflections from a range of young Anglicans in a variety of contexts Here we see a glimpse of the strengths and struggles of the Anglican Communion There is no space for complacency The title of the book created much discussion I still remember the excitement we all felt when our first contributor from Hong Kong explained to us the meaning of the Chinese character for life widening We all thought that this captured the essence of how we long for mission not only to be but also to be experienced as life widening Our God is a God of love life and spaciousness so we long for the missio Dei to be practiced and received as life widening We hope that this book may disturb challenge comfort and enrich your life We think it will disturb and challenge as you read of the hardship and injustices experienced in many parts of God s world and creation today We think it will comfort and enrich as you read stories of change and renewal and as you meet the writers through their writings From the Preface by Cathy Ross

Endorsements It is clear from the essays collected here that the experience of the 2010 World Mission Conference in Edinburgh was both affirming and frustrating for those taking part affirming because of its recognition of how the center of gravity has moved in global Christianity frustrating because of the relative slowness of so many global Christian bodies to catch up with this and to embody it in the way they do business and in the way they represent themselves This remarkably gifted and creative Anglican delegation at least had some claim to embody the ethnic gender and age balance of the Communion But what they write here gives us no cause for complacency and these reflections will or should provide plenty of food for thought in the various councils of the Communion in the coming years From the Foreword by The Archbishop of Canterbury The Most Revd Dr Rowan Williams About the Contributor s Cathy Ross is John V Taylor Fellow in Missiology Regent s Park College Oxford

Twentieth Century Anglican Theologians Stephen Burns, Bryan Cones, James Tengatenga, 2020-11-24 A scholarly volume that reflects the rich diversity of Anglican theology With contributions from an international panel of writers Twentieth Century Anglican Theologians offers a wide ranging view that presents a survey of over twenty diverse Anglican thinkers The book explores well known figures including William Temple Austin Farrer Donald MacKinnon and John A T Robinson These theologians are set in a wider context alongside others from India China Australia Ghana and elsewhere Notably the subjects include a number of women from Evelyn Underhill the first woman to teach the clergy of the Church of England to Esther Mombo a major contemporary Anglican figure from Kenya The book reflects the rich diversity of Anglicanism suggesting the ongoing vitality of this religious tradition This important book Contains information on a number of prominent women Anglican thinkers Includes contributions from experts from around the world Presents material on both familiar figures and others that are unjustly little known Written for students and teachers of Anglicanism Anglican clergy and ecumenical colleagues Twentieth Century Anglican Theologians is the first book to reflect the diversity of the Anglican tradition by considering its global theological representatives Orthodox Anglican Identity Charles Erlandson, 2020-04-28 While the postmodern world we inhabit is highly fragmented contested and conflicted we all have one thing in common we are experiencing identity crises Religious traditions are not immune to these crises and orthodox Anglicans have been experiencing their own issues with identity since the 2003 consecration of an openly homosexual man Orthodox Anglicans want to say who they are as both orthodox and Anglican but they are also finding it difficult to articulate a clear and coherent identity especially an Anglican one This orthodox Anglican pursuit of a renewed sense of self in a complex and fragmented world is a microcosm of our postmodern context and an examination of their quest holds enticing clues to our own urgent searches for meaning and identity Think of this book as a kind of story the story of a worldwide church who when its identity was threatened took counsel together to renew and revitalize its sense of self In the process it not only faced many dangers and difficulties but also learned much about who it was and who it wanted to be

Church, Communion, and Culture Martyn Percy, 2026-02-17 This book makes a bold claim It argues that the Worldwide Anglican Communion was irreparably broken on a single day November 14 1784 The consecration of Samuel Seabury preempted its end Seabury was the first American bishop All of the schisms spats rows and divisions that have taken place since are mere aftershocks following a barely noted earthquake in a backstreet of Aberdeen Scotland That first fissure leads to all the later fractures that now herald the breakup of the Worldwide Anglican Communion The book with hard data humor insight and surprising new facts explores and explains how Anglican or Episcopal faith belief and practice remains one single entity What split the Anglican Communion before it started was the separation of the Old World Europe and specifically Britain and the Church of England and the New World Continental America Ultimately the rejection of monarchy and embracing of democracy will be the fate of the Anglican Communion Furthermore it will mark the end of the Church of England as we know it The book argues it cannot be reformed any further Only a revolution can save it Beyond Colonial Anglicanism Ian T. Douglas, Kwok Pui-lan, 2000-01-01 This is a collection of fifteen provocative essays by a cadre of international authors that examine the nature and shape of the Communion today the colonial legacy economic tensions and international debt sexuality and justice the ecological crisis violence and healing in South Africa persecution and religious fundamentalism the church amid global urbanization and much more
