

The background of the cover is a photograph of a person riding an elephant across a body of water at sunset. The sun is a large, bright orange circle on the horizon, and its reflection is visible in the water. The sky is a warm, orange-brown color, and there are several small, dark silhouettes of birds flying in the upper part of the sky. The overall mood is serene and natural.

dominant debates about insider status and direct action are less important than the question of agency That is the important question is not what is done to change the way animals are treated as much as whom is to be mobilised to join the cause Students of philosophy politics and environmental issues will find this an essential textbook
