Dublin The Emerald City:

Dublin Scott Thompson,2000-09-29 At the dawn of the twentieth century Dublin Georgia was transformed from a violent and lawless community into one of the states fastest growing most prosperous and cultivated cities The coming of the railroad the prohibition of liquor sales and evolving industries all played a part in escorting Dublin into this Golden Era a period of unparalleled expansion and exuberance With over two hundred historic photographs Dublin The Emerald City takes the reader on a journey into Dublins storied past tracing the major events that gave Dublin its sense of community and restored pride in its residents following years of turmoil Included are images of the towns early homes businesses churches and schools as well as local festivals fairs and sports teams Although the towns Golden Era came to an untimely end with the invasion of the boll weevil the influenza epidemic of 1918 and the devastation of lives lost during the First World War Dublin is still a spirited community growing and changing with the times while reflecting upon a colorful history Road Biking™ Georgia John Trussell,2008-04-01 Detailed descriptions and maps of forty of the best bicycle rides in Georgia from easy afternoon jaunts to multi day tours Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 United States. Internal Revenue Service,2001 Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 ,2000 The New South Comes to Wiregrass Georgia, 1860-1910 Mark V. Wetherington,2002-05 This first book length examination of the Georgia Pine Belt challenges the conventional view of this area as an unchanging economic backwater by examining its postbellum evolution from an independent agricultural economy to one entirely dependent upon a single unstable crop cotton Before the Civil War the Georgia Piney Woods region easily supported a population of mostly self sufficient yeomen and livestock herders After the war a variety of external forces invaded the region propelling the economy through three stages of social political and economic change that permanently altered the landscape Spearheaded by New South boosters like Henry Grady these invasions were intended to create a South with a diversified economic future bright with industry and self sufficient agriculture The first stage did see economic advancement in the form of transportation routes including railroads that opened up the Pine Belt s forests to the second stage of change industrialized sawmilling and turpentine This second stage created new jobs but failed to bring in other industries leaving the area dependent upon an industry that destroyed the antebellum open range herding system and brought deforestation within a generation The lumber industry s demise led to the final stage of change which saw New South boosters in an attempt to curtail the economic malaise promoting the deforested lands to a wave of newcomers immigrant cotton farmers from the upcountry hungry for new lands With no other industries to compete with them cotton farmers came to dominate the area s economic life even more than before the Civil War By 1910 few Georgia pinelanders doubted that a New South had arrived but it was not the diversified landscape that Henry Grady and others had originally envisioned It was instead a land of cotton much like the one that had come to dominate life across the rest of the Pine Belt
