Socioeconomic Inequality and Student Outcomes Louis Volante, Sylke V. Schnepf, John Jerrim, Don A. Klinger, 2019-08-31 This book examines socioeconomic inequality and student outcomes across various Western industrialized nations and the varying success they have had in addressing achievement gaps in lower socioeconomic status student populations. It presents the national profiles of countries with notable achievement gaps within the respective school aged student populations, explains the trajectory of achievement results in relation to both national and international large scale assessment measures, and discusses how relevant education policies have evolved within their national contexts. Most importantly, the national profiles investigate the effectiveness of policy responses that have been adopted to close the achievement gap in lower socioeconomic status student populations. This book provides a cross national analysis of policy approaches designed to address socioeconomic inequality.

Social Class and Transnational Human Capital Jürgen Gerhards, Hans Silke, Sören Carlson, 2017-06-26 Due to globalization processes, foreign language skills, knowledge about other countries, and intercultural competences have increasingly become important for societies and people's social positions. Previous research on social inequality, however, has dominantly focused on the reproduction of class structures within the boundaries of a particular nation state without considering the importance of these specific skills and competences. Within Social Class and Transnational Human Capital, authors Gerhards, Hans, and Carlson refer to these skills as transnational human capital and ask to what extent access to this increasingly sought after resource depends on social class. Based on Pierre Bourdieu's theory of class, they investigate this question via both quantitative and qualitative empirical analyses. In doing so, the authors focus among other examples on the so-called school year abroad, i.e. students spending up to a year abroad while attending school, a practice which is rather popular in Germany but also quite common in many other countries. Thus, this insightful volume explores how inequalities in the acquisition of transnational human capital and new forms of social distinction are produced within families depending on their class position and the educational strategies parents pursue when trying to prepare their children for a globalizing world. An enlightening title, this book will appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers interested in fields such as sociology, social inequality research, globalization studies, and educational studies.
