

The researchers also came across with a similar study conducted by Dr. Dr. Alex Ylagan, et al (2013) [14], entitled, "Compliance of Lyceum of the Philippines University Accredited Boarding Houses: Basis for a Proposed Plan of Action", this scholarly work examined the operation of boarding houses in 2008 and found the necessity to provide accredited boarding houses thru the initiative of the Office of Student Affairs.

The research entitled, "Conditions of the Nearby Boarding Houses of a State University In the Northern Philippines: A Benchmark Study conducted by Julius S. Valderama (2013) [15], focuses on the assessment of the boarding houses near the premises of Nueva Vizcaya State University (NVSU) in northern Philippines. The boarding houses were assessed along four areas namely basic amenities, safety and security, special services and other boarders' concerns.

In international setting, the study conducted by Khumalo, Blasius Dumisani entitled, "An investigation into the educational performance of black high school students who lodge at private homes in the Nongoma circuit," focused on the private lodging house conditions and investigated the relationship between these conditions and the academic performance of black high school students.

The main goal of the study is to determine the significant relationship of the conditions of lodging houses in Guihulngan City and the academic performance of NORSU students. The physical, environmental and social conditions of the lodging houses are evaluated and were correlated to the academic performance of students to identify the relationship between the variables. The significant relationship will be the basis for policy formulation of the university through the Student Affairs Office and the policy making of the local government. This study will help policy makers on gauging the various needs of the students and this will also enrich the literature about lodging houses and academic performance.

Methodology

The method used in this study is descriptive-correlational method. This is designed to determine the relationship of two variables (X and Y) whether their relationship is perfect, very high, high, marked, slight, or negligible. On the other hand, the statistical treatment of the data using Pearson Product Moment Coefficient of Correlation, this is used in identifying the relationship between the lodging house conditions and the academic performance of students. In addition, the interview of selected respondents will be accomplished to supplement and to validate the Pearson Product Moment Coefficient of Correlation statistical tool results.

This study was conducted around the premises of Negros Oriental State University, Guihulngan City Campus. Particularly the lodging houses in operation as living quarters of students enrolled in the University.

The respondents of this study will be identified through the use of random sampling in the campus of Negros Oriental State University, Guihulngan City Campus.

The data were collected through survey, interviews and documentary research. A researcher's survey guide will be developed for the purpose of gathering basic information of students residing in lodging houses. In depth interviews among selected students and operators, landlords and managers of lodging houses will be conducted. In gathering the QPA of students, the researchers will employ documentary research.

The researchers did data transcription. Data presentations (tables) and analysis will follow, together with the interpretation of the interviews. Statistical analysis will use Pearson Product Moment Coefficient of Correlation. This will identify the relationship between the lodging houses conditions and the students' academic performance.

The tools used in analyzing and in interpreting the data were the following:

Percentage: This is used to show how a part is related to a whole. It is used in presenting the profile of the respondents.

Formula:

$$\text{Percentage} = \frac{\text{part}}{\text{whole}} \times 100$$

Mean: This is used to get the extent of performance of the respondents.

Formula:

$$\bar{x} = \frac{\sum x}{n}$$

where  $\bar{x}$  = mean/average

x = scores/rating

n = number of students

Pearson Product Moment Coefficient of Correlation:

This is used in identifying the relationship between the lodging houses' conditions and the academic performance of students.

$$r = \frac{N(\sum xy) - (\sum x)(\sum y)}{\sqrt{[N(\sum x^2) - (\sum x)^2]} \sqrt{[N(\sum y^2) - (\sum y)^2]}}$$

where x is the lodging houses' conditions

y is the academic performance of students

r is the coefficient of correlation

To interpret the correlation value (r) obtained, the following classifications are applied:

- ± 1.00 - perfect correlation
- Between ± 0.80 to ± 0.99- very high correlation
- Between ± 0.60 to ± 0.79- high correlation
- Between ± 0.40 to ± 0.59- marked/moderate correlation
- Between ± 0.20 to ± 0.39- low/slight correlation
- Between ± 0.01 to ± 0.19- negligible correlation

Results

Table 1 shows how the respondents rated their lodging houses in accordance to the following indicators: lighting and electrical facilities, ventilation and spacing, fire protection facilities, and study room.

Table 1: Physical Conditions of the Lodging House N=316

Statements/Categories	$\bar{X}$	Verbal Equivalent
1. Lighting and Electrical Facilities.	3.04	Good
2. Ventilation and spacing.	2.81	Good
3. Fire Protection Facilities.	2.55	Fair
4. Study Room.	2.28	Fair
