An interesting addition to Orthopteran distribution in the West Indies is the finding by Mr R J Crew of the species Neotettix
quadri undulatus Redtenbacher on the Island on Haiti Eight specimens kindly presented to me were taken around Port au Prince and as Mr Crew informs me were swept from plants along the banks of a small stream I have identified this species which was first described by Brunner and Redtenbacher 1892 from the Island of St Vincent West Indies in Proceedings of the Zoological Society of London and an excellent figure is to be found on Plate xvi fig 10 Here it is recorded as a Tettix but subsequent study has shown its closer approximation to Neotettix Hancock Species of the latter genus occur on the mainland of the southern United States and Mexico The above species was recorded numerous on the Island of St Vincent Mr H H Smith found it at Chateaubelais also at the south end of the island near the sea under decaying leaves Brunner 1893 again records this species from the Island of Grenada at Mount Gay Estate Caliveny Estate Balthazar in Orthoptera of the Island of Grenada Proceedings Zoological Society of London From a series of Tettigidje kindly furnished me from Mexico by Mr O W Barrett I am able to describe two new species of the genus Tettigidea Scudder Tettigidea jalapa sp nov Rather large Eyes prominent Above fusco ferruginous dark fuscous over entire face and the sides the last few segments at the end of the abdomen pale legs pale throughout the maxillary palpi a little depressed apically and very light below the edges of prominent points ar1d abdominal rings light Body long granula
