Canadian Environmental Policy Robert Boardman, 1992 The book's common theme is the character and significance of the politics and processes that underlie policy making on the environment Canadian Environmental Policy Robert Boardman, Debora VanNijnatten, 2002 Now in its second edition this book focuses on the character and significance of the politics and processes that underlie policy making on the environment It has been redesigned to reflect major trends and changes in environmental policy during the 1990s such as the effects of budgetary restraints on environmental policy and the growing importance of the provinces as environmental policy actors Canadian Politics James Bickerton, Alain Gagnon, 2009-01-01 The new fifth edition of Canadian Politics continues the work of earlier editions in offering a comprehensive introduction to Canadian government and politics by a widely recognized and highly respected group of political scientists writing about subjects on which they are acknowledged experts For this edition the editors have organized the book into four sections Part I Citizenship Identities and Values Part II Institutions Part III Democracy and Representation and Part IV Canada in the World The fourth section develops a focus on the diverse and increasingly important influences of globalization on the Canadian polity the environment and the role of Canada in the world Of the eighteen chapters nine are completely new and six new authors appear including Martin Papillon on Aboriginal governments Peter J Stoett on Canadian international environmental policy and Andrew F Cooper on Afghanistan and Canadian foreign policy The remaining chapters have been thoroughly revised and updated The Greening of Canada G. Bruce Doern, Thomas Conway, 1994-12-15 Environmental matters have become increasingly important in Canadian and world policy agendas In this study G Bruce Doern and Thomas Conway trace the development of Canadian environment policy giving an in depth account of twenty years of environmental politics politicians institutions and decisions as seen through the evolution of Ottawa's policy agency Environment Canada The Greening of Canada is an extensively researched look at the entire period from the early 1970s to the present and is the most complete and integrated analysis yet of federal environmental institutions and key decisions From Great Lakes pollution to the Green Plan from the Stockholm Conference to the post Rio Earth Summit era the authors deal with both domestic and international events and influences on Ottawa's often abortive efforts to entrench a green agenda into national politics The book explores the crucial relationships of institutional and political power directing attention at the DOE and its parade of ministers intra cabinet battles federal provincial relations business relations and public opinion and international and Canada U S relations It also examines important topics from acid rain policy to the politics of establishing national parks and from the Green Plan to the realities of environmental enforcement Employing a framework cast as the double dynamic of environmental policy making the authors show the growing struggle between the management of power among key institutions and the need to accommodate a biophysical realm characterized by increased uncertainty as well as scientific and technological controversy Environmental Politics in Canada Judith McKenzie, 2002

This is the only book to give background on environmental thought in both a Canadian and world context It is designed as an introduction to environmental politics and policy with Canada as its primary focus Including focus boxes and end of chapter study questions it is appropriate for a wide range of students as well as scholars Policy Studies Journal ,2000

Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index ,1993-03 In the Chamber of Risks William Leiss,2001 In In the Chamber of Risks William Leiss demonstrates that case studies of risk controversies show that those instincts are unreliable guides to effective risk management and that in all cases the opposite position is a far better guide As risk management is inherently disputable public perceptions of risk should be seen as legitimate and treated as such and the public should always be involved in discussions about risk evaluations made by scientists and risk managers Leiss chronicles the erratic course of risk management and communication in environmental management in Canada discussing the notable controversies that have arisen over pesticides and breast cancer vinyl toys genetically engineered food crops cellular telephones and antibiotic resistant bacteria among many others He focuses on risk management how we make decisions about and assess hazards in the environment and on risk communication social dialogue that deals with both our intuitive feelings of concern about substances or activities that might hurt our health or the environment and the scientific and probabilistic description of them Leiss shows that both risk management and risk communication when properly constructed require an elaborate process because the very things that can cause harm are in most cases the same things that bring us great benefits such as paper mills electricity from nuclear power generating stations or wireless telecommunications
