Canadian Mosaic John Murray Gibbon, W.J. Phillips, R.H. Palenske, 1939 Canadian Mosaic John Murray Gibbon, 1938

Canadian Mosaic. The Making of a Northern Nation, Etc. [With Plates.] John Murray Gibbon, 1939 Before Official Multiculturalism Franca Iacovetta, 2022-11-01 For almost two decades before Canada officially adopted multiculturalism in 1971 a large network of women and their allies in Toronto were promoting pluralism as a city and nation building project Before Official Multiculturalism assesses women as liberal pluralist advocates and activists critically examining the key roles they played as community organizers frontline social workers and promoters of ethnic festivals The book explores women's community based activism in support of a liberal pluralist vision of multiculturalism through an analysis of the International Institute of Metropolitan Toronto a postwar agency that sought to integrate newcomers into the mainstream and promote cultural diversity Drawing on the rich records of the Institute as well as the massive International Institutes collection in Minnesota the book situates Toronto within its Canadian and North American contexts and addresses the flawed mandate to integrate immigrants and refugees into an increasingly diverse city Before Official Multiculturalism engages with national and international debates to provide a critical analysis of women's pluralism in Canada National Identity and the Conflict at Oka Amelia Kalant, 2004-06 Through readings of literature canonical history texts studies of museum displays and media analysis this work explores the historical formation of myths of Canadian national identity and then how these myths were challenged and affirmed during the 1990 standoff at Oka It draws upon history literary criticism anthropology studies in nationalism and ethnicity and post colonial theory Internationalization and the North American University Library Karen Bordonaro, 2013-08-08 This book offers a fresh perspective on understanding university library work with international users in North America It investigates what librarians international students and international scholars perceive the role of the university library to be in internationalization in higher education It also explores the phenomenon of internationalization itself as it is lived and experienced by both librarians and international users Personal definitions and experiences of internationalization offered by librarians and international users include viewing internationalization as the broadening of knowledge on multiple levels the idea of seeing oneself as part of a greater whole and the building of international research connections Both librarians and international users describe elements of internationalization such as exposure awareness engagement empathy and transcending boundaries Inherent contradictions are present as well such as the stronger emphasis on defining differences rather than similarities and the disconnect between inward and outward looking aspects of internationalization Finally this book connects theoretical perspectives concerning the phenomenon of internationalization to the practice of academic librarianship in North America It does this by presenting what librarians in both the United States and Canada think about working with international users in terms of benefits challenges and best practices Practical lessons learned include the need to move beyond focusing solely on the linguistic and cultural challenges of working with international users to also consider the positive aspects of working with them such as widening worldviews and expanding personal knowledge Czechs and Slovaks in North America Esther Jerabek,1976 The Canadian Historical Review ,1920 Includes section Recent publications relating to Canada
