Computer Science and Statistics: Proceedings of the 13th Symposium on the Interface W. F. Eddy, 2012-12-06

The 13th Symposium on the Interface continued this series after a one year pause. The objective of these symposia is to provide a forum for the interchange of ideas of common concern to computer scientists and statisticians. The sessions of the 13th Symposium were held in the Pittsburgh Hilton Hotel Gateway Center Pittsburgh. Following established custom, the 13th Symposium had organized workshops on various topics of interest to participants. The workshop format allowed the invited speakers to present their material variously as formal talks, tutorial sessions, and open discussion. The Symposium schedule was also the customary one. Registration opened in late afternoon of March 11, 1981, and continued during the opening mixer held that evening. The formal opening of the Symposium was on the morning of March 12. The opening remarks were followed by Bradley Efron's address, "Statistical Theory and the Computer." The rest of the daily schedule was three concurrent workshops in the morning and three in the afternoon, with contributed poster sessions during the noon break. Additionally, there were several commercial displays and guided tours of Carnegie Mellon University's Computer Center, Computer Science research facilities, and Robotics Institute.

Understanding American Agriculture National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Panel to Review USDA's Agricultural Resource Management Survey, 2007-11-07

The Agricultural Resource Management Survey (ARMS) is the federal government's primary source of information on the financial condition, production practices, and resource use on farms, as well as the economic well-being of America's farm households. ARMS data are important to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and to congressional administration and industry decision makers when they must weigh alternative policies and programs that touch the farm sector or affect farm families. ARMS is unique in several respects. As a multiple purpose survey with an agricultural focus, ARMS is the only representative national source of observations of farm level production practices, the economics of the farm businesses operating the field or dairy herd, greenhouse, nursery, poultry house, etc., and the characteristics of the American farm household, age, education, occupation, farm and off-farm work types, employment, family living expenses, etc. No other data source is able to match the range and depth of ARMS in these areas. American agriculture is changing, and the science of statistical measurement is changing as well. As with every major governmental data collection with such far-reaching and important uses, it is critical to periodically ensure that the survey is grounded in relevant concepts, applying the most up-to-date statistical methodology and invested with the necessary design.

estimation and analytical techniques to ensure a quality product ARMS is a complex undertaking From its start as a melding of data collected from the field the farm and the household in a multiphase multiframe and multiple mode survey design it has increased in complexity over the decade of its existence as more sophisticated demands for its outputs have been made Today the survey faces difficult choices and challenges including a need for a thorough review of its methods practices and procedures Understanding American Agriculture Challenges for the Agricultural Resource Management Survey summarizes the recommendations of the committee who wrote the survey
