Computerized Cataloguing Eric J. Hunter, 1985 Computer Software Cataloging Deanne Holzberlein, 1986 This informative manual provides everything the professional librarian needs to know about cataloging computer software. Examples of software labels, title screens, and catalog cards are used to illustrate how to catalog microcomputer software according to the 1974 Guidelines to Chapter 9 of the Anglo American Cataloging Rules 2nd edition. The samples include educational programs, educational games, and business and public disks and cassettes. Designed as a supplementary tool, this thorough volume is intended to accompany the Guidelines to enhance their use and to make them concrete through examples and explanations.

ICT Developments in Nigerian Libraries David Raitt, 2005. Annotation: Nigeria seems to be behind in a lot of areas. North American, European, Australasian, and even S E Asian librarians will say they have been there done that long ago, but that does not negate the fact that articles about the experience of placing computers in libraries, automation of processes, use of CD ROMs, introduction of the Internet, and so on, are just as valid from people doing it now today for the first time as they were from when many of us did it 20 or 30 years ago.

Library and Information Science in Developing Countries: Contemporary Issues Tella, A., 2011-11-30. The field of library and information science is experiencing significant and continued transformation as a result of advancements in digital technology. Adapting to new technologies is crucial for librarians and other information professionals, but there exists a particularly acute gap in technology adoption among developing countries. Library and Information Science in Developing Countries: Contemporary Issues explores the relationship between global technology development and the impact of new technologies on library practice, library education, and information science. Book chapters and case studies in this work provide insight to and support for practitioners and executives concerned with the management of knowledge, information, and organizational development in different types of work environments and learning communities.
