The Call of Distant Mammoths Peter D. Ward,1998-10-09 To help us understand what happened during the Ice Age Peter Ward takes us on a tour of other mass extinctions through earth s history He presents a compelling account of the great comet crash that killed off the dinosaurs and describes other extinctions that were even more extensive In so doing he introduces us to a profound paradigm shift now taking place in paleontology rather than arising from the gradual workings of everyday forces all mass extinctions are due to unique catastrophic events Written with an irresistible combination of passion and expertise The Call of Distant Mammoths is an engaging exploration of the history of life and the importance of humanity as an evolutionary force Carefully argued an intelligent and compelling book THE OLYMPIAN SEATTLE WASHINGTON Ward deftly summarizes a large body of scientific literature simplifying complex ideas for the general reader without condescension PUBLISHERS WEEKLY Did the overkill really happen Peter Ward deftly summarizes the arguments Ward tells the story well THE NEW SCIENTIST Ecocide Franz Broswimmer,2002-09-20 We live in an age of ecocide Changes of enormous ecological significance are occurring on our planet the ozone layer is beginning to disintegrate Since 1970 the world s forests have almost halved A quarter of the world s fish have been depleted 70% of biologists believe the world is now in the midst of the fastest mass extinction of species in the planet s 4 5 billion year history Biodiversity loss is rated as a more serious environmental problem than the depletion of the ozone layer global warming or pollution and contamination How have we come to this and what can be done to conserve our environment for the future Ecocide examines the facts behind the figures to offer a disturbing account of the ecological impact that the human species has on the planet It shows how we are wilfully destroying our world Highlighting important countermovements who are working for ecological democracy this unique book is essential for anyone who cares about conserving our environment for the future Mammoth Chris Flynn,2020-04-28 The original unforgettable and thought provoking new novel by award winning author Chris Flynn that will change how readers understand the world Narrated by a 13 000 year old extinct mammoth this is the mostly true story of how a collection of prehistoric creatures came to be on sale at a natural history auction in New York in 2007 By tracing how and when these fossils were unearthed Mammoth leads us on a funny and fascinating journey from the Pleistocene epoch to nineteenth century America and beyond revealing how ideas about science and religion have shaped our world With our planet on the brink of calamitous climate change Mammoth scrutinises humanity s role in the destruction of the natural world while also offering a message of hope Visions of War David D. Perlmutter,2014-05-27 Visions of War provides a historical survey an anatomy an interpretation and a polemic about the ways human beings have created pictures of battle and conflict from the Stone Age to the Gulf War From the dawn of time to the present from the days of mammoth hunting to the era of Scud busting pictures of war constitute the most persistent genre of images human beings have created In fact human beings are the only creatures who engage in these two activities organized violence and the making of pictorial images and the author shows how both art and war emerge from the same source the hunter's eye David D Perlmutter's Visions of War explores and analyzes the thirteen thousand year legacy of pictures of war from various cultures over the centuries from the Stone Age cave paintings and monumental sculpture of the ancient Near East to the art of the classical period and the Middle Ages from pre contact Mesoamerican imagery to Napoleonic propaganda and totalitarian art and on to the instantaneous images of the Gulf War

The Condor's Shadow David S. Wilcove, 2000-05-09 With gripping narrative power The Condor's Shadow traces the ways in which human greed and ignorance have wreaked havoc on our ecological landscape The heir apparent to Peter Matthiessen's 1959 classic Wildlife in America The Condor's Shadow is a brilliant and compulsively readable study of the state of North American wildlife and what is being done to reverse the damage humans have caused With equal respect for the smallest feather mite and the fiercest grizzly the frailest flower and the stateliest redwood David S Wilcove illustrates in jargon free often witty prose nature's delicate system of checks and balances examining the factors that determine a species vulnerability and the consequences of losing even the tiniest part of any ecosystem An examination of both the heart wrenching failures and stunning successes of our conservation efforts The Condor's Shadow chronicles the destruction and resilience of our American wilderness and offers an insightful eloquent overview that will appeal to avid conservationists and recreational nature lovers alike

Extinctions in Near Time Ross D.E. MacPhee, Hans-Dieter Sues, 2013-11-09 Near time an interval that spans the last 100 000 years or so of earth history qualifies as a remarkable period for many reasons From an anthropocentric point of view the out standing feature of near time is the fact that the evolution cultural diversification and global spread of Homo sapiens have all occurred within it From a wider biological perspective however the hallmark of near time is better conceived of as being one of enduring repeated loss The point is important Despite the sense of uniqueness implicit in phrases like the biodiversity crisis meant to convey the notion that the present bout of extinctions is by far the worst endured in recent times substantial losses have occurred throughout near time In the majority of cases these losses occurred when and only when people began to expand across areas that had never before experienced their presence Although the explanation for these correlations in time and space may seem obvious it is one thing to rhetorically observe that there is a connection between humans and recent extinctions and quite another to demonstrate it scientifically How should this be done Traditionally the study of past extinctions has fallen largely to researchers steeped in such disciplines as paleontology systematics and paleoecology The evaluation of future losses by contrast has lain almost exclusively within the domain of conservation biologists Now more than ever there is opportunity for overlap and sharing of information

West Southwest Gregory K. Pregill, 2018-06-04 West Southwest Vertebrate Life in Southern California celebrates an amazingly diverse fauna with description evolutionary background geographic insight and ecological detail Southern California is a vast region of very different habitats all with an abundance of unique species of plants and animals and all within a day's drive Southern California shares an evolutionary history with other areas of the Southwest but it has its own identity The book is not a field identification guide Instead the book provides the evolutionary history of species groups details where the individual species occur and their habitat preferences and how they avoid the perils of predation and human impact Key Selling Features Summarizes the evolutionary background and ecology of southern California s vertebrates freshwater fish amphibians turtles snakes lizards birds and mammals Reviews the history of southern California s biotic communities from the coast to the deserts and their association with other areas of the Southwest Discusses vertebrate design and how it affects performance and lifestyle Extends and enhances the content of regional field identification guides Includes 120 maps figures and color plates

The Handy Dinosaur Answer Book Thomas E. Svarney,2003

American Megafaunal Extinctions at the End of the Pleistocene Gary Haynes,2008-12-23 The volume contains summaries of facts theories and unsolved problems pertaining to the unexplained extinction of dozens of genera of mostly large terrestrial mammals which occurred ca 13 000 calendar years ago in North America and about 1 000 years later in South America Another equally mysterious wave of extinctions affected large Caribbean islands around 5 000 years ago The coupling of these extinctions with the earliest appearance of human beings has led to the suggestion that foraging humans are to blame although major climatic shifts were also taking place in the Americas during some of the extinctions The last published volume with similar but not identical themes Extinctions in Near Time appeared in 1999 since then a great deal of innovative exciting new research has been done but has not yet been compiled and summarized Different chapters in this volume provide in depth resum s of the chronology of the extinctions in North and South America the possible insights into animal ecology provided by studies of stable isotopes and anatomical physiological characteristics such as growth increments in mammoth and mastodont tusks the clues from taphonomic research about large mammal biology the applications of dating methods to the extinctions debate and archeological controversies concerning human hunting of large mammals
