

5 The Regional Cambridge Multisectoral Dynamic Model of the UK Economy

Terry Barker, Bernie Fingleton, K.Homenidou and R.Lewney

5.1 Introduction

This chapter reports on a regionalised, fully specified and coherent model of the various UK regional economies. It has a clear economic structure allowing incorporation of incomplete and partial data in a similar manner to the procedure followed in general equilibrium modelling, but at the same time validating the model's projections against the available data for employment and output. The regionalised model is a development of the Cambridge Multisectoral Dynamic Model of the UK economy (MDM); see Barker and Peterson (1987) for an account of version 6 of the model. This is a time-series, cross-section (input-output) model distinguishing, inter alia, 49 industries and 68 categories of consumers' expenditure. The standard UK regions are treated as one of several classifications in the model, with several commodity, industry and employment variables regionalised according to the availability of data. The current version of the model (MDM94) has been re-estimated on 1997 National Accounts and consistent Regional Accounts data (on the 1990 price base) and incorporates the 1990 input-output tables for the UK.

5.2 Regional Input-Output Models

Stone (1961) provides a useful analysis of the development of regional models. The possibilities of regional applications were recognised early in input-output analysis (Isard, 1951). Isard's model envisaged a full set of input-output tables for all the regions and a full set of data on inter-regional trade, ie trade was to be disaggregated for each region with every other region. Trade between the regions was in fixed proportions to output. This was soon followed by two variants, both limiting the data requirements and altering the restrictive assumption of proportionality. The first by Leontief (1953), elaborated further by Leontief and Strout (1963), assumed that each industry had the same cost structure in each region, that commodities were either

Pau,2014-05-17 Dynamic Modelling and Control of National Economies 1983 contains the proceedings of the Fourth IFAC IFORS IASA Conference and the 1983 SEDC Conference on Economic Dynamics and Control held at Washington D C USA on June17 19 1983 Separating the 65 papers presented in the conference as chapters this book covers a broad class of problems or notions arising both in economic theory control applications to planning and implementation issues Some chapters discuss multi level interactions of government and private sectors in economic development inflation and economic policy in an open economy foreign debt and exchange rate stability in a developing country and expectations in numerical general equilibrium models This book also explains a rational decision making process for resource policymaking inference of the structure of economic reasoning from natural language analysis modeling and analysis of a national economy and methodological issues in global modeling Econometric analysis of the economic effects of population change aspects of optimal estimation control strategies in econometrics and optimal policies for interdependent economies are also discussed This book will be useful to those engaged in economic and control theory research Regional Science in Business Graham Clarke,Moss Madden,2013-03-09 Graham Clarke and Moss Madden 1 1 Background In the mid 1990s there were a number of papers in regional science that questioned the relevance and purpose of the entire sub discipline Bailly and Coffey 1994 for example talked of regional science in crisis They argued that there were two fundamental problems First regional science was too theoretical in the sense that many of its products were models that could neither be calibrated too complex or operationalised too abstract in the real world They suggested that regional science had not sufficiently demonstrated that it can address real world problems and subsequently lacked a focus on relevant policy issues Second they argued that regional science had become too narrow in focus and had moved away too far from real people and their daily concerns or struggles in life This was not the first time we had witnessed these sorts of arguments both from outside the discipline and from within Sayer 1976 was perhaps the first to argue for a shift from a model based focus in regional science to one based on political economy Breheny 1984 criticised the deep ignorance among regional scientists of the nature of practical policy making and implementation see also Rodwin 1987 for similar views in the mid 1980s Such self reflection is a feature of many disciplines as they reach maturity There have been many similar reflections in geography Johnston 1996 Barnes 1996 and economics see the collection in the January edition of the Economic Journal 1991 Resources, Financial Risk and the Dynamics of Growth Roberto Pasqualino,Aled Wynne Jones,2020-05-19 This book presents a new System Dynamics model the ERRE model a novel stock and flow consistent global impact assessment model designed by the authors to address the financial risks emerging from the interaction between economic growth and environmental limits under the presence of shocks Building on the World3 03 Limits to Growth model the ERRE links the financial system with the energy agriculture and climate systems through the real economy by means of feedback loops time lags and non linear rationally bounded decision making Prices and their interaction with growth inflation and interest rates are assumed to be the main driver of economic failure while reaching planetary limits The model allows for the stress testing of fat tail extreme risk scenarios such as climate shocks energy transition monetary policies and carbon taxes Risks are addressed via scenario analyses compared to real available data and assessed in terms of the economic theory that lies behind The book outlines the case for a government led system change within this decade where the market alone cannot lead to sustainable prosperity This book will be of great interest to scholars of climate change behavioural ecological and evolutionary economics green finance and sustainable development
