Canadian Social Work Review ,2002 Through the Screen Wildly Joanne Benford, 2008 As with the relationship between any two cultural areas the flow of ideas between science and science fiction is two way An exchange of knowledge and perspectives exists fed by the concerns of society at large This book explores the dialogues that take place between science fiction and the postmodern world and what effects these have had on identity I take the science fiction novel to be the paradigmatic form of postmodernism Instead of presenting a truth with possible explanations between which it may be impossible to choose the science fiction novel presents possible worlds The stuff of fiction the human condition is framed by unusual worlds which in turn create surprising dilemmas with which the characters must cope It is this question of possible worlds exploring how they relate to temporality in postmodern fiction linking to ideas of hyperspace and finally to my discussion of the postmodern city and the notion of the wildzone The Blackwell Encyclopedia of Sociology: ST-Z George

The Disjunctive Empire of International Relations Leong Yew, 2003 Yew imparts that contemporary forms of imperialism revolve around a disjunctive logic allowing cultural civilizing and solipsistic feelings of classical European imperialism to interoperate with newer and morally rectified strains of American superpower dominance In order to explore how such an interoperability is possible this book begins with a theoretical overview of how imperialism should be conceptualized how it operates and how it produces a type of economy that allows it to evolve in accordance with historical transformations without losing sight of its ongoing emphasis of Western hegemony ambivalent form of US imperialism is constituted leading to the inability within American society to effectively handle non state political opposition There are therefore a number of intended readerships which include researchers and academics interested in new ways of thinking about imperialism and international relations and a wider audience in cultural studies postcolonial studies and critical theory
