Americas Asian Alliances:

America's Asian Alliances Robert D. Blackwill, Paul D. Dobbins, 2000 Systematic and concrete prescriptions for strengthening America's alliances in the Asia Pacific region Unlike the new and largely peaceful Europe the Asia Pacific region is fraught with old instabilities and new risks as well as opportunities America's Asian alliances face an arc of potential instability from the divided Korean peninsula in Northeast Asia to the nuclear confrontation between India and Pakistan on the South Asian subcontinent to an unstable Indonesia in Southeast Asia The United States and its allies must also address the rise of Chinese power slow the spread of nuclear and high tech conventional weapons maintain access to energy resources and expand the world free trade system In this book nine distinguished US and Australian strategists present systematic and concrete prescriptions for strengthening America's Asian alliances These policy driven chapters address the roles that the US Japan US South Korea and US Australia alliances can play in ensuring long term stability and prosperity in the region

Powerplay Victor D. Cha, 2016-08-16 A close look at the evolution of American political alliances in Asia and their future While the American alliance system in Asia has been fundamental to the region's security and prosperity for seven decades today it encounters challenges from the growth of China based regional organizations How was the American alliance system originally established in Asia and is it currently under threat How are competing security designs being influenced by the United States and China In Powerplay Victor Cha draws from theories about alliances unipolarity and regime complexity to examine the evolution of the U S alliance system and the reasons for its continued importance in Asia and the world Cha delves into the fears motivations and aspirations of the Truman and Eisenhower presidencies as they contemplated alliances with the Republic of China Republic of Korea and Japan at the outset of the Cold War Their choice of a bilateral hub and spokes security design for Asia was entirely different from the system created in Europe but it was essential for its time Cha argues that the alliance system's innovations in the twenty first century contribute to its resiliency in the face of China's increasing prominence and that the task for the world is not to choose between American and Chinese institutions but to maximize stability and economic progress amid Asia's increasingly complex political landscape Exploring U S bilateral relations in Asia after World War II Powerplay takes an original look at how global alliances are achieved and maintained

The Future of America's Alliances in Northeast Asia Michael H. Armacost, Daniel I. Okimoto, 2004 For the past half century the United States Japan and South Korea have maintained a three cornered alliance to guarantee peace in Northeast Asia U S Japanese security relations currently thrive However conflicting perceptions in Seoul and Washington of Kim Jong Il's North Korean regime and how to deal with it have generated deep concerns about the future of the U S Korean alliance and security affairs are not fundamentally eroding the foundation of U S alliance and security partnerships in the region None of the six nations covered in this book Australia Japan the Philippines Singapore South Korea and Thailand see China as a viable strategic alternative to the United States The United States remains the security partner of choice in the region But consistent U S efforts are needed to ensure this situation continues in perpetuity China however is changing some U S alliances and security partnerships in Asia In many cases China makes U S security commitments even more relevant Nations can confidently engage China precisely because U S security commitments endure However America s Asian allies and partners are increasingly seeking to maximize their maneuvering room by positioning themselves to benefit from ties with both China and the United States On balance America s Asian allies and security partners want continued U S involvement in the region but sometimes only in certain ways at certain times and on particular issues What is not occurring in Asia in response to China s rise is as important as what is occurring Contrary to media reporting East Asia is not gradually falling under China s hegemony at least not the six nations addressed here China is not gradually and surreptitiously pushing the United States out of the region or otherwise making it irrelevant Regional states are not climbing on a Chinese bandwagon in expectation of its eventual hegemony The United States and China are jockeying for power and influence but not in a zero sum manner
