Depositional History Of Franchthi Cave Sediments Stratigraphy And Chronology:

Depositional History of Franchthi Cave William R. Farrand, 2018-10-26 This fascicle describes the background of the Franchthi project and its excavation history and methodology Particle size mineralogy and chemistry are all taken into consideration as the cultural remains and the sediments from the cave are analyzed to determine their origin and history William Farrand constructs an integrated stratigraphy for the entire cave using excavators notes laboratory analyses and personal field data to correlate sequences in separate trenches On the basis of some 60 radiocarbon dates the evolution and chronology of the sedimentary fill is postulated

El Mirón Cave, Cantabrian Spain Lawrence Guy Straus, Manuel R. González Morales, 2012-04-15 Though known as a site since 1903 El Mirón Cave in the Cantabrian Mountains of northern Spain remained unexcavated until a team from the universities of New Mexico and Cantabria began ongoing excavations in 1996 This large deeply stratified cave allowed the team to apply cutting edge techniques of excavation recording and multidisciplinary analysis in the meticulous study of a site that has become a new reference sequence for the classic Cantabrian region The excavations uncovered the long history of human occupation of the cave extending from the end of the Middle Paleolithic through the Upper Paleolithic up to the modern era This volume comprehensively describes the background information on the setting the site the chronology and the sedimentology It then focuses on the biological and archaeological records of the Holocene levels pertaining to Mesolithic Neolithic Chalcolithic and Bronze Age Archaeologists anthropologists and historians will be drawn to this study and its extensive findings dated by some seventy five radiocarbon assays

A Companion to Environmental Geography Noel Castree, David Demeritt, Diana Liverman, Bruce Rhoads, 2016-10-03 A Companion to Environmental Geography is the first book to comprehensively and systematically map the research frontier of human environment geography in an accessible and comprehensive way Cross cuts several areas of a discipline which has traditionally been seen as divided presenting work by human and physical geographers in the same volume Presents both the current state of the art research and charts future possibilities for the discipline Extends the term environmental geography beyond its traditional meanings to include new work on nature and environment by human and physical geographers not just hazards resources and conservation geographers Contains essays from an outstanding group of international contributors from among established scholars and rising stars in geography

Barāqish/Yathill (Yemen) 1986-2007 Sabina Antonini, Francesco G. Fedele, 2021-05-06 This richly illustrated volume presents the remarkable results of the Italian Archaeological Mission's investigations at the site of the walled town of Barāqish in interior Yemen ancient Yathill of the Sabaeans and Minaeans between 1986 and 2007

Under the Sea: Archaeology and Palaeolandscapes of the Continental Shelf Geoffrey N. Bailey, Jan Harff, Dimitris Sakellariou, 2017-05-16 This book focuses on issues of method and interpretation in studies of submerged landscapes concentrating on illustrations and case studies from around Europe with additional examples from other parts of the world Such landscapes were once exposed as dry land during the low sea levels that prevailed during the glacial periods that occupied most of the past million years and provided extensive new territories for human exploitation Their study today involves underwater investigation using techniques and strategies which are clearly set out in these chapters The underwater landscape provides a rich source of information about the archaeology of human settlement and long term changes in environment climate and sea level This book highlights how such information can be revealed and interpreted The examples presented here and the focus on techniques make this book of worldwide relevance Chapters describe examples of underwater archaeological investigation as well as collaboration with offshore industries and legal management and training issues relating to underwater cultural heritage Such studies point to the significance of this drowned landscape and readers are invited to consider its human impact in terms of past settlement and population dispersal through palaeolandscape reconstruction and interpretation in relation to broader themes in human prehistory This volume is based on work from COST Action SPLASHCOS a four year multi disciplinary and multi national research program supported by COST European Cooperation in Science and Technology and has something to benefit all those with an interest in the sea floor of the continental shelf and the archaeological and social impact of sea level change including archaeologists marine scientists geographers cultural heritage managers commercial and governmental organisations policy makers and interested members of the public

Side-by-Side Survey Susan Alcock, John Cherry, 2016-10-02 Twenty years ago John Cherry looked forward to the day when archaeological survey projects working around the Mediterranean region the Frogs round the pond would begin to compare and synthesize the information they had collected He anticipated researchers tackling big questions of interregional scope in new and interesting ways working at a geographical scale considerably larger than that of the individual survey Was his optimism misplaced Despite the extraordinary growth of interest in field survey projects and regional analysis and despite the developments in survey methodology that have been discussed and implemented in the past two decades few scholars have attempted to use survey data in a comparative mode and to answer the broad scale questions confronting social historians In this volume which is the outcome of an advanced Workshop held at the University of Michigan in 2002 a number of prominent archaeologists return to the question of comparability They discuss the potential benefits of working in a comparative format with evidence from many different Mediterranean survey projects and consider the practical problems that present roadblocks to achieving that objective From mapping and manuring to human settlement and demography environment and culture each addresses different questions often with quite different approaches together they offer a range of perspectives on how to put surveys side by side Contributors include Susan E Alcock John Cherry Jack L Davis Peter Attema Martijn van Leusen James C Wright Robin Osborne David Mattingly T J Wilkinson and Richard E Blanton

Sediments in Archaeological Context Julie K. Stein, William R. Farrand, 2001 Almost every artifact in archaeological analysis originates in or on the ground While there are elaborate methods for extracting and analyzing artifacts treatment of the matrix within which they are located is often unsophisticated and does not include systematic analysis Sediments in

Archaeological Context concerns the analysis of this matrix and the potential use of sediments to answer archaeological questions Describing sediments and sampling them in appropriate ways do not replace the study of artifacts but they can provide additional useful information regarding a site complex its physical environment and the relations of artifacts to each other Each chapter in the volume considers sediments within a specific context Topics include sediments found in a variety of environments cultural environments rockshelter and cave environments dryland alluvial environments humid alluvial environments lake environments shoreline environments and spring and wetland environments Sediments in Archaeological Context is intended for every archaeologist who investigates sites in depositional contexts Journal of Field

Archaeology, 2000 The Greek Mesolithic Nena Galanidou, 2003 This book is the first major review of the Mesolithic age of Greece writes Colin Renfrew If the Franchthi Cave publications represent a first milestone in mesolithic studies in the Aegean this volume certainly constitutes a second It establishes a perspective going beyond that of the single key site allowing earlier finds such as those from Sidari on Corfu to be re assessed and including more recent discoveries at the Theopetra Cave at the Cave of Cyclope on Youra and from the Klisoura Gorge The book moreover develops a number of methodological advances along with a careful review of the chronology It embarks also upon detailed investigations of the fauna and microfauna The Review of Archaeology, 2004 The Widening Harvest Albert J. Ammerman, Paolo Biagi, 2003 This volume brings together papers presented at a conference titled The Neolithic Transition in Europe Looking Back Looking Forward held in Venice in 1998 Eighteen chapters address the origins of agriculture the Neolithic transition in southern central and northern Europe genetic and linguistic aspects of the Neolithic and future prospects for research and analysis Geoarchaeological Study of El Mirón Cave, Ramales de la Victoria, Cantabria, Spain William James Hubbard, 2000 Flexible Stones Anna Stroulia, 2010-03-30 Accompanying CD ROM contains plates P 4 of cover
