Impact of the Innate and Adaptive Immune System in Driving Type 1 Inflammatory Skin Disease Barbara Meier-Schiesser, Judit Danis, Mark

Mellett,2025-02-25 Inflammatory skin diseases are frequent in number and often lead to a decreased quality of life in the affected patients These diseases result from a complex interplay between the innate and adaptive immune systems Type 1 inflammation is an immune response driven primarily by Th1 cells which secrete pro inflammatory cytokines notably Interferon gamma The initiation of Type 1 inflammation is typically triggered by the recognition of antigens associated with intracellular pathogens Dendritic cells present these antigens to naive T cells leading to the differentiation of predominantly Th1 cells which in turn activate other immune cells including macrophages and cytotoxic T cells In chronic inflammation the infiltration of T cells drives the perpetuating cycle of inflammation at the epidermal barrier Th1 induced inflammation can synergize with recruitment and heightened activity of other T cell subsets such as Th17 cells Typical type 1 inflammatory skin diseases include psoriasis lichen planus acne hidradenitis suppurativa pityriasis rubra pilaris adverse cutaneous drug eruptions and autoimmune disorders such as vitiligo and lupus erythematoses
