Locomotive Firemen's Magazine ,1906 Cassell's Illustrated History of India James Grant,1876 Twentieth Century History of Sandusky County, Ohio Basil Meek,1909 Imagic Moments Lee Schweningen,2013-05-01 In Indigenous North American film Native Americans tell their own stories and thereby challenge a range of political and historical contradictions including egregious misrepresentations by Hollywood Although Indians in film have long been studied especially as characters in Hollywood westerns Indian film itself has received relatively little scholarly attention In Imagic Moments Lee Schweningen offers a much needed corrective examining films in which the major inspiration the source material and the acting are essentially Native Schweningen looks at a selection of mostly narrative fiction films from the United States and Canada and places them in historical and generic contexts Exploring films such as Powwow Highway Smoke Signals and Skins he argues that in and of themselves these films constitute and in fact emphatically demonstrate forms of resistance and stories of survival as they talk back to Hollywood Self representation itself can be seen as a valid form of resistance and as an aspect of a cinema of sovereignty in which the Indigenous peoples represented are the same people who engage in the filming and who control the camera Despite their low budgets and often nonprofessional acting

Indigenous films succeed in being all the more engaging in their own right and are indicative of the complexity vibrancy and survival of myriad contemporary Native cultures
