Coastal Forces:

British Coastal Forces Norman Friedman, 2023-04-30 The Royal Navy invented the fast motor torpedo boat during the First World War and used it and other small coastal craft to great effect during the Second This book tells the dramatic story of British coastal forces both offensive and defensive in both World Wars and beyond In the Second World War British coastal forces fought a desperate battle to control the narrow seas particularly the Channel and the North Sea and took the war to the coasts of German occupied Europe fighting where larger warships could not be risked They also made a significant contribution to victory in the Mediterranean but it was primarily warfare in home waters that shaped wartime British Coastal Forces and left lessons for postwar development In this book Norman Friedman uniquely connects the technical story of the coastal craft and their weapons and other innovations with the way they fought In both world wars much of the technology was at the edge of what was feasible at the time Boats incorporated considerable British innovation and also benefited from important US contributions particularly in supplying high powered engines during World War II In contrast with larger warships British coastal forces craft were essentially shaped by a few builders and their part in the story is given full credit They also built a large number of broadly similar craft for air sea rescue and for completeness these are described in an appendix This fascinating dramatic story is also relevant to modern naval thinkers concerned with gaining or denying access to hostile shores The technology has changed but the underlying realities have not This book includes an extensive account of how coastal forces supported the biggest European example of seizing a defended shore the Normandy invasion That was by far the largest single British coastal forces operation demanding a wide range of innovations to make it possible Like other books in this series this one is based very heavily on contemporary official material much of which has not been used previously like the extensive reports of US naval observers who were allowed wide access to the Royal Navy as early as 1940 Combined with published memoirs these sources offer a much more complete picture than has previously appeared of how Coastal Forces fought and of the way in which various pressures both operational and industrial shaped them Allied

Coastal Forces of World War II: Volume I John Lambert, Al Ross, 2018-10-30 The major contribution made by Coastal Forces to the Allied war effort has had surprisingly little coverage in the literature of the Second World War Motor torpedo boats PT boats motor gunboats launches and submarine chasers served with distinction throughout the War and in every theatre They performed invaluable service as patrol boats convoy escorts minelayers and minesweepers harbour defence vessels light landing craft RAF rescue boats and transports for agents and clandestine missions Allied Coastal Forces now a recognised classic work and first published in 1990 remains the only publication to deal comprehensively in words photographs and drawings with the technical detail of all these boats Design construction and subsequent development are all covered and the builders construction lists fates and the technical data are given for each type Separate sections cover armament and equipment sea going qualities and habitability This first volume covers all the designs of the Fairmile Marine

Company including those craft built and equipped for Canada together with the 72ft Harbour Defence Motor Launch and the US Navy 110ft subchaser The authors firmly established as the recognised authorities on small warships unearthed a remarkable body of information now included in this major work and their finely detailed drawings redrawn from original builders plans offer an unparalleled view of all these remarkable designs The new editions of their work will be welcomed by naval enthusiasts and modellers alike Allied Coastal Forces of World War II: Fairmile designs and US submarine chasers John Lambert, Al Ross, 1990 This ambitious study provides the technical details of these boats in words photographs and hundreds of finely detailed keyed line drawings Coastal Forces Vessels of the Royal Navy from 1865 Maurice Cocker, 2006 An insight into the Royal Navy's various vessels Coastal Forces at War David Jefferson, 2008 The Royal Navy's Coastal Forces engaged in some of the closest fought sea battles of the Second World War Silent and unseen hunting by night in the oily black wastes of the ocean their fast little ships struck quickly and mercilessly at their Nazi prey then escaped back into the cloak of the night Their crews needed nerves of steel for the high speed chases and lightning quick fire fights that followed an action that might last mere seconds and the fate of a vessel and its crew could be decided in the blink of an eye Their war was one of exhilaration vulnerability and often terror Kriegsmarine Coastal Forces Gordon Williamson, 2012-06-20 A fascinating look at the history of the ships that formed the backbone of the Kriegsmarine from minesweepers to torpedo boats to blockade breakers Coastal Forces Barry Clarke, Jurgen Fielitz, Malcolm Touchin, 1994 Victory at Sea Hal Lawrence, 1989 Flag 4 Dudley Pope, 1954 Flag 4 the signal for attack with torpedoes is an account of British motor torpedo boats in the Mediterranean during the Second World War British Coastal Forces were the smallest fighting ships of the Royal Navy able to fight in the shallowest waters penetrate minefields and hide in the inlets of enemy held islands they were in fact from 1940 to 1943 the only surface craft able to continually seek out and attack the enemy Based on the eyewitness accounts of the officers and men who served in these perilous actions The Battle of the Narrow Seas Peter Scott, 2009-09-24 A WWII Royal Navy commander recounts the struggle to control the narrow seas between Britain and the rest of Europe throughout the war A Motor Torpedo Boat Commander in the Second World War Sir Peter Scott the son of explorer Robert Scott was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his bravery in battle Combining his own experience with extensive military research he tells the story of the wide ranging naval conflict against the Germans fought in the congested waters of the Channel and the southern North Sea Actions against convoys and E boats often under the shadows of French cliffs an impossible sortie against Scharnhorst and Gneisenau as they ran the gauntlet through the Straits in February 1942 the attack on St Nazaire and the defensive and offensive roles taken on by MTBs during the D Day landings are just some of the events covered in the book The bravery of the crews of these small ships became legendary As the War dragged on their exploits helped to raise the morale of the nation Allied Coastal Forces of World War II John Lambert, Al Ross, 1993-12-31 Volume II examines sixteen Vosper MTB designs and the US 70ft 77ft and 80ft ECLC designs US built Vosper designs supplied under lease lend are also covered while weapons systems and machinery are dealt with in detail Design construction equipment and subsequent development are all covered and builders construction lists fates and technical data are given for each type Some 700 finely detailed drawings have been included
