Handbook of the Behavioral Neurobiology of Serotonin Christian P. Muller, Barry Jacobs, 2009-12-30 Serotonin 5 hydroxytryptamine often cited as 5 HT is one of the major excitatory neurotransmitter and the serotonergic system is one of the best studied and understood transmitter systems It is crucially involved in the organization of virtually all behaviours and in the regulation of emotion and mood Alterations in the serotonergic system induced by e g learning or pathological processes underlie behavioural plasticity and changes in mood which can finally results in abnormal behaviour and psychiatric conditions Not surprisingly the serotonergic system and its functional components appear to be targets for a multitude of pharmacological treatments examples of very successful drugs targeting the serotonergic system include Prozac and Zoloft The last decades of research have not only fundamentally expanded our view on serotonin but also revealed in much more detail an astonishing complexity of this system which comprises a multitude of receptors and signalling pathways A detailed view on its role in basal but also complex behaviours emerged and was presented in a number of single review articles Although much is known now the serotonergic system is still a fast growing field of research contributing to our present understanding of the brains function during normal and disturbed behaviour This handbook aims towards a detailed and comprehensive overview over the many facets of behavioural serotonin research As such it will provide the most up to date and thorough reading concerning the serotonergic systems control of behaviour and mood in animals and humans The goal is to create a systematic overview and first hand reference that can be used by students and scholars alike in the fields of genetics anatomy pharmacology physiology behavioural neuroscience pathology and psychiatry The chapters in this book will be written by leading scientists in this field Most of them have already written excellent reviews in their field of expertise The book is divided in 4 sections After an historical introduction illustrating the growth of ideas about serotonin function in behaviour of the last forty years section A will focus on the functional anatomy of the serotonergic system Section B provides a review of the neurophysiology of the serotonergic system and its single components In section C the involvement of serotonin in behavioural organization will be discussed in great detail while section D deals with the role of serotonin in behavioural pathologies and psychiatric disorders The first handbook broadly discussing the behavioral neurobiology of the serotonergic transmitter system Co edited by one of the pioneers and opinion leaders of the past decades Barry Jacobs Princeton with an international list 10 countries of highly regarded contributors providing over 50 chapters and including the leaders in the field in number of articles and citations K P Lesch T Sharp A Caspi P Blier G K Aghajanian E C Azmitia and others The only integrated and complete resource on the market containing the best information integrating international research providing a global perspective to an international community Of great value not only for

Neuroplastic changes in addiction Ildikó Rácz, 2014-05-05 Addiction is a chronic relapsing disorder which comprises impulsive and compulsive elements Chronic drug consumption leads to long term neuroadaptive changes in the brain thus result in an addictive state However development of addiction is a complex interaction between genetic epigenetic and environmental factors The resulting cellular and molecular changes mediate the transition from controlled drug use to the loss of control over drug taking and drug seeking The human association studies helped us to identify some important genetic factors responsible for the susceptibility to addiction However social environmental circumstances highly influence the development of addiction Using animal models helps us to examine the underlying neuronal molecular processes under standardised conditions The aim of this Research Topic is to summarize our knowledge about the neuroplastic changes which contribute to the maintenance of drug taking Data presented in this Research Topic should also provide evidences how acute and long term neuronal changes during withdrawal result in relapse How different neuromodulators like endocannabinoids and endogenous opioids contribute to molecular mechanisms that mediate the transition from the controlled occasional drug consumption to the uncontrolled escalating drug use and seeking

Memory and motivational/emotional processes Antonella Gasbarri, Carlos Tomaz, It is well established that memory for emotional information is generally better than for neutral information This Research Topic comprises a set of papers focusing on memory and its relation with motivational and emotional processes ranging from electroencephalographic evidences of emotional modulation of memory systems to the role of neurotransmitters neuromodulators i e endocannabinoid glucocorticoid serotonin noradrenergic dopaminergic systems and second messengers on emotional memory and the specific involvement of cerebral areas on the relation between memory and motivational emotional processes i e prefrontal cortex amygdala accumbens In particular some of the topics discussed in this Research Topic will include cortical activity correlates of emotional modulation of memory systems interactions between ascending vagal fibers and central noradrenergic systems in modulating memory for emotionally arousing events involvement of prefrontal accumbal catecholamine system in processing emotional and motivational salience role of both negative and positive emotional arousal in increasing persistence of consolidated memories through modulation of second messengers and the involvement of emotional arousal in the activation of amygdala projections that can then modulate different types of memory
