BIOGRAPHY

Sir Frederick Banting

Dr. Frederick Banting was a Canadian physician and scientist who, along with Charles Best, discovered the hormone insulin in 1921. This discovery revolutionized the treatment of diabetes, a life-threatening condition that had previously had no effective medical intervention. Banting and Best's work was published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal in 1922. For their discovery, Banting and Best were awarded the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine in 1923. Banting's discovery of insulin is considered one of the most important medical breakthroughs of the 20th century.

Banting's discovery of insulin was a major breakthrough in the treatment of diabetes. Before his discovery, diabetes was a fatal disease. Banting and Best's work showed that the pancreas produces a hormone called insulin that helps regulate blood sugar levels. Without insulin, the body cannot use glucose for energy, leading to complications and eventually death. Banting's discovery of insulin has saved millions of lives and is still a vital part of diabetes treatment today.
