Dugong Meadow:

The Dugong Meadow Naomi Mairou, 2002 The tranquil seagrass meadow seems a safe place for Gentle Dugong and his aquatic undersea friends to play until one day a trawler with its scoop net appears Superbly illustrated Ages 4 Sirenian Conservation Ellen Hines, John E. Reynolds III, 2012-05-20 This important scientific volume comprehensively explores the biology and ecological status of manatees and dugongs in all of the geographic regions where they can be found today from the Caribbean to Eastern Africa from Arabia to the Amazon and from Japan through the South Pacific to Australia Many of these dwindling populations are situated in developing countries locales that have previously received little attention in the scientific literature In these areas people occupying rivers or coastlines still capture sirenians for food and other uses oil bones for carving leather In addition disruption erosion or complete loss of sirenian habitat occurs because of dredge and fill coastal run off chemical pollution and damage from boat propellers Sirenian Conservation features contributions from an international group of scientists who are working to address the many challenges to manatee and dugong food supply environment reproduction and survival They share stories of programs that rescue rehabilitate release and monitor these animals offer reports on practical replicable and cost effective management techniques and summarize current research strategies Seagrasses of Australia Anthony W. D. Larkum, Gary A. Kendrick, Peter J. Ralph, 2018-07-27 This book takes the place of Biology of Seagrasses A Treatise on the Biology of Seagrasses with Special Reference to the Australian Region co edited by A W D Larkum A J MacComb and S A Shepherd and published by Elsevier in 1989 The first book has been influential but it is now 25 years since it was published and seagrass studies have progressed and developed considerably since then The design of the current book follows in the steps of the first book There are chapters on taxonomy floral biology biogeography and regional studies The regional studies emphasize the importance of Australia having over half of the world's 62 species including some ten species published for Australia since the previous book There are a number of chapters on ecology and biogeography fish biology and fisheries and dugong biology are prominent chapters Physiological aspects again play an important part including new knowledge on the role of hydrogen sulphide in sediments and on photosynthetic processes Climate change pollution and environmental degradation this time gain an even more important part of the book Decline of seagrasses around Australia are also discussed in detail in several chapters Since the first book was published two new areas have received special attention blue carbon and genomic studies Seagrasses are now known to be a very important player in the formation of blue carbon i e carbon that has a long turnover time in soils and sediments Alongside salt marshes and mangroves seagrasses are now recognized as playing a very important role in the formation of blue carbon And because Australia has such an abundance and variety of seagrasses their role in blue carbon production and turnover is of great importance The first whole genomes of seagrasses are now available and Australia has played an important role here It appears that seagrasses have several different suites of genes as compared with other land plants and even in comparison with freshwater hydrophytes This difference is leading to important molecular biological studies where the new knowledge will be important to the understanding and conservation of seagrass ecosystems in Australia Thus by reason of its natural abundance of diverse seagrasses and a sophisticated seagrass research community in Australia it is possible to produce a book which will be attractive to marine biologists coastal scientists and conservationists from many countries around the world
