Dynamic Modeling In The Health Sciences:

Dynamic Modeling in the Health Sciences James L. Hargrove, 2012-12-06 The world consists of many complex systems ranging from our own bodies to ecosystems to economic systems Despite their diversity complex systems have many structural and functional features in common that can be effectively simulated using powerful user friendly software As a result virtually anyone can explore the nature of complex systems and their dynamical behavior under a range of assumptions and conditions This ability to model dynamic systems is already having a powerful influence on teaching and studying complexity The books in this series will promote this revolution in systems thinking by integrating skills of numeracy and techniques of dynamic modeling into a variety of disciplines The unifying theme across the series will be the power and simplicity of the model building process and all books are designed to engage the reader in developing their own models for exploration of the dynamics of systems that are of interest to them Modeling Dynamic Systems does not endorse any particular modeling paradigm or software Rather the volumes in the series will emphasize simplicity of learning expressive power and the speed of execution as priorities that will facilitate deeper system understanding Applied

System Simulation Mohammad S. Obaidat, Georgios I. Papadimitriou, 2012-12-06 Simulation and modeling are efficient techniques that can aid the city and regional planners and engineers in optimizing the operation of urban systems such as traffic light control highway toll automation consensus building public safety and environmental protection When modeling transportation systems such as freeway systems arterial or downtown grid systems the city planner and engineer is concerned with capturing the varied interactions between drivers automobiles and the infrastructure Modeling and simulation are used to effectively optimize the design and operation of all of these urban systems It is possible that in an urban simulation community workshop citizens can work interactively in front of computers and be able using the click of the mouse to walk up to their own front porch looking at the proposed shopping mall alternatives across the street from virtually any angle and proposed bridge or tunnel and see how it can reduce traffic congestion Buildings can be scaled down or taken out their orientation can be changed in order to check the view and orientation in order to have better site with efficient energy conservation The stone or brick material on a building can be replaced by colored concrete or more trees and lampposts can be placed on the site Such flexibility in simulation and animation allows creative ideas in the design and orientation of urban sites to be demonstrated to citizens and decision makers before final realization Indoor Air Quality
