Dublin Stories:

The Springs of Affection Maeve Brennan, 2009-03-10 The twenty one stories collected here the very best stories of one of The New Yorker's most celebrated writers trace the patterns of love within three Dublin families Love between husband and wife which begins in courtship and laughter loses all power of expression and then vanishes forever The natural love of sister for brother and of mother for son is twisted into the rage to possess And love that gives rise to the rituals of family life those ordinary customs that are the only true realities most of us ever know grows solid as rock that will never give way In his introduction William Maxwell who was for twenty years Maeve Brennan's editor writes of the special quality of her work and especially of the title story which he places among the great short fiction of the twentieth century The Heart of Dublin: An Anthology of Six Modern Short Stories Norwood Eleven, 2024-04-29 Immerse yourself in the enchanting streets of Dublin with this captivating anthology of six modern short stories From the cozy corners of beloved pubs to bustling parks and historic landmarks each tale offers a unique glimpse into the soul of this vibrant city With themes ranging from love and friendship to adventure and self discovery The Heart of Dublin invites readers to embark on a journey through the rich tapestry of Dublin life Whether you're a local longing for familiar sights or a traveler seeking to experience the city's magic from afar this anthology promises to transport you to the heart of Dublin with every turn of the page Featuring six compelling stories including tales of friendship found in unexpected places encounters with lost loves on rainy afternoons and the timeless bond between humans and their four legged companions this anthology captures the essence of Dublin in all its beauty and complexity Perfect for fans of evocative storytelling style and those who crave a taste of Dublin's charm The Heart of Dublin is a must read for anyone with a love for literature and a desire to explore the wonders of this iconic city

The House on Parkgate Street and Other Dublin Stories Christine Dwyer Hickey, 2013 As a child she had believed the racecourse was in a different country So begins this collection of stories from one of Ireland's master storytellers and appropriately because the collection takes one to many different worlds and shows us Dublin as seen through many different eyes and protagonists of all ages from young to old and in between Dublin Stories, 1996 Irish Women Writers and the Modern Short Story Elke D'hoker, 2016-07-28 This book traces the development of the modern short story in the hands of Irish women writers from the 1890s to the present George Egerton Somerville and Ross Elizabeth Bowen Mary Lavin Edna O'Brien Anne Enright and Claire Keegan are only some of the many Irish women writers who have made lasting contributions to the genre of the modern short story yet their achievements have often been marginalized in literary histories which typically define the Irish short story in terms of its oral heritage nationalist concerns rural realism and outsider hero Through a detailed investigation of the short fiction of fifteen prominent writers this study aims to open up this critical conceptualization of the Irish short story to the formal properties and thematic concerns women writers bring to the genre What stands out in thematic terms is an abiding interest in human relations whether of love the family or the larger community In formal terms this book traces the overall development of the Irish short story highlighting both the lines of influence that connect these writers and the specific use each individual author makes of the short story form Maeve Brennan Edward O'Rourke,2024-10-30 This book explores the intricate interplay between physical spaces and psychological landscapes in the works of Irish American author Maeve Brennan Brennan's writing is now classed amongst the most important of twentieth century Irish women's fiction having undergone a significant reclamation and reappraisal in the 30 years since her death Single and childfree for most of her life Brennan eschewed the securities of family and home experiencing an otherness that she shared with her fellow New Yorkers many of them left she wrote hanging on to a city half capsized most of them still able to laugh as they cling to the island that is their life's predicament It is a suitably ambiguous expression for a writer who cultivated an interstitial existence whose stories inhere within a dream cycle of reiterative pasts and whose works augment and elevate the canon of radical Irish fiction The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson,I. R. Willison,1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries

Anthologisation and Irish Short Fiction Paul Delaney,2025-03-28 This original new study explores the recent flowering of short fiction in Ireland analysing the production dissemination and reception of the short form in the twenty first century and reading contemporary short stories in their many configurations and guises This volume covers twenty five years of Irish writing beginning in late 1997 with the establishment of the innovative literary periodical The Stinging Fly and concludes in 2022 The book is structured in five parts with each part focusing on a particular mode of publication periodicals single author volumes short story cycles edited anthologies and small or independent presses Each part includes a series of case studies while also engaging with a diverse range of short story criticism and theory both comparative and Irish centered Anthologisation and Irish Short Fiction brings different writers at distinct stages of their careers into conversation and This volume aims to illuminate the contemporaneous value of this body of work its innovative and varied use and the diversity of its practice Particular attention is also shown to the fluidity of the short form to its capacity to disrupt and arrest and to its progressive writerly potential Dublin Folk Tales for Children Órla Mc Govern,2018-02-08 Do you know what in e's tiny spoon was used for What was hiding up Mrs O Flaherty's chimney How did the fairy man help the tailor's apprentice Who was the little flower of Castleknock Castle What looks just like the skin of a rainbow You'll find all the answers and loads more useful stuff inside this book Dublin Folk Tales for Children is full of imagination with stories specially selected for the

Ireland's Textual Cultures Niels Caul,2025-10-16 Putting Joyce back into dialogue with other Irish writers of his generation this book shows that his experiments with narrative styles and structures were a renegotiation rather than a rejection of earlier Irish conventions The News from Dublin Colm Toibin,2026-03-31 One of Literary Hub s Most Anticipated Books of 2026 From Colm T ib n one of the world s best living literary writers The Boston Globe comes a brilliant collection of nine short stories many never before published set across Ireland Spain and America about the complexities of family longing loss and love Celebrated as his generation s most gifted writer of love s complicated contradictory power Los Angeles Times Colm T ib n is a master of short fiction as well as the novel able to summon an extraordinary intensity of emotion in a brief tale The eleven stories transport readers across continents and eras In The Journey to Galway a mother who has learned of the death of her son a fighter pilot in WWII travels to Galway to inform his wife and their three now fatherless children Sleep originally published in The New Yorker explores the rift between two lovers as one of them cannot reckon with his grief and fear after the death of his brother Death again is a central character in the title story The News from Dublin as Maurice Webster travels to Dublin to try to save his younger brother who is dying of tuberculosis Maurice must petition the health minister for access to a new experimental drug and this is the only hope T ib n s stories are rich with the complexities of family dynamics the haunting pull of the past and the quiet revelations that define our lives His characters whether navigating the aftermath of war or forbidden love or the desires of a girl in Catalan or the quiet struggles mundane life are rendered with illuminating unforgettable empathy and insight The News from Dublin is an exquisite introduction to T ib n s short fiction for new readers who may have discovered T ib n with the publication of Long Island and a glorious new collection for longtime fans of this achingly beautiful writer with infinite compassion The Miami Herald
