WineSpeak Bernard Klem,2009-07-01 If you read wine reviews you re already either amused or confused by the soaring language wine writers often use to describe what they re smelling and tasting But do you always know what they mean Have you ever sipped a complex white and sensed what s so colorfully described as a peacock s tail Have you ever savored a full bodied red only to detect the ripe acrid smell of a horse stall If not you re in for a treat because these terms and thousands more are all here to amuse dismay enlighten inspire puzzle and utterly shock you Welcome to the rich linguistic universe of wine speak a world where words and wine intersect in an uncontrolled riot of language guaranteed to keep you entertained for hours The author a lifelong lover of both wine and words has compiled and organized this unique thesaurus of 36 975 wine tasting descriptors into 20 special collections extracted from 27 categories so you can locate exactly the right term or phrase to express yourself clearly or to understand others May your path across the galaxy of wine be paved only with labels from the very best bottles on earth Or much more cautiously with wines that could introduce you to angel pee citronella eastern European fruit soup Godzilla iodine ladies underwear mustard gas old running shoes rawhide hot tar roads bubblegum sweaty saddles crushed ants kitchen drains or even turpentine

The Independent Review Edward Jenks,1905 The Adam-man Tongue Edmund Shaftesbury,1903 Death Sentences Garrett Stewart,1984 This is a book about terminals and boundaries mortality and closure the infinitesimals of style and the finite limits of representational language about least and last things together It is a book to start with about three vast and familiar facts of life and art death content and form Only by their particular triangulation in the genre of prose fiction do they mark out the hypothesis of the present study that death in fiction is the fullest instance of form indexing content is indeed the moment when content comprising the imponderable of negation and vacancy can be found dissolving to pure form Death in narrative yields by yielding to sheer style The Printing Art, 1915 Printing Art Quarterly, 1915 The Adam-man tongue, the universal language of the human race, by Edmund Shaftesbury Webster Edgerly, 1903 The Kansas Engineer, 1920 The Living Age, 1906 The Ink of Melancholy André Bleikasten, 1990-06-22 The period from the late 1920s to the early 1940s was in Faulkner's career one of prodigious fertility and the creative outburst on which it opens from The Sound and the Fury 1929 through As I Lay Dying 1930 and Sanctuary 1931 to Light in August 1932 touches indeed on the miraculous It is the four children of this miracle that Andr Bleikasten re examines and re evaluates in his substantial new book on Faulkner But rather than approach Faulkner's fiction from a priori theoretical assumptions and process it through some prefabricated grid he has concentrated on the text themselves on the motivations and circumstances of their composition on the rich array of their themes structures textures on their various narrative protocols and the endless interplay of their tropes and codes on their points of emphasis and repetition as well as their rifts and gaps Brilliant in its thought and argument drawing eclectically on the resources of philosophy psychoanalysis anthropology and other disciplines and using modern critical theory without ever being arcane or trendy Bleikasten's book is a highly personal performance and one of the most insightful and stimulating studies that Faulkner has received Sixteen Modern American Authors Jackson R.
