The Boundaries of EC Competition Law Okeoghene Odudu, 2006 This monograph addresses two problems surrounding the interpretation and application of Article 81 of the EC Treaty what is competition and how does Article 81 ensure that competition is protected After over 40 years of application and a period of modernisation decentralisation and reflection it is possible to understand Article 81 and what it seeks to achieve The monograph s aim is to reveal the intellectual order and rational structure underlying the law so as to enable the reader to understand Article 81 in a clear and rigorous manner This is done by breaking Article 81 down into its constituent elements and examining the function that each element serves Arguing that jurisdiction rests on a public private distinction both the substantive and the justificatory rules are cast to generate obligations appropriate for private actors to perform Actors and activities falling within the scope of Article 81 are subject to the substantive element prohibiting contrived reductions in output Since output reduction can co exist with cost reduction innovation and that these latter features are desirable cost reduction and innovation operate to justify infringement of the substantive obligation Thus this monograph argues that output cost and innovation are the only legitimate issues in an Article 81 analysis It is in this sense that the monograph is concerned with the boundaries of Article 81 EC

Ec Competition Law Essay - Article 81 Veronica Hagenfeldt,2011-04 Scientific Essay from the year 2009 in the subject Law European and International Law Intellectual Properties grade Distinction University of Edinburgh School of Law course EC Competition Law language English abstract Despite the ambitious efforts of Article 81 to catch as much anticompetitive conduct as possible through its broadly defined agreements and concerted practices the title statement is nevertheless correct in stating that genuinely unilateral conduct escapes its scope By analysing the limitations of Articles 81 and 82 EC Part 1 of the essay will establish what constitutes genuinely unilateral anticompetitive conduct that slips through the net of both Articles However it is not only the direct limitations of Article 81 that render it incapable of catching unilateral conduct but also the problematic issue regarding the exact delimitation of the concept of an agreement within the meaning of Art 81 1 and the distinction between such an agreement and unilateral conduct This paper shares the view expressed in the title statement Article 81 will require an amendment if it is to catch more unilateral conduct because its current flaws prevent it from achieving more In order to justify this stance this paper shall in Part 2 and Part 3 conduct a thorough investigation and evaluation of the legal evolution of how the European Courts and the Commission have determined where the borderline lies between unilateral conduct in vertical restraints and between an agreement within the meaning of Article 81 As will be shown the EC institutions especially the Courts have recently become more restrictive in their definition of what constitutes an agreement under Article 81 This development has had the regrettable result of allowing even more unilateral conduct to go uncaught As a result of both the direct limitations of the Articles and of the now more restricted definition applied to an agreement an amendment of Article 81 is in fa

The Criminalization of European Cartel Enforcement Peter Whelan,2014-08-07 Cartel activity is prohibited under EU law by virtue of Article 101 1 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union Firms that violate this provision face severe punishment from those entities responsible for enforcing EU competition law the European Commission the national competition authorities and the national courts Stiff fines are regularly imposed on firms by these entities such firm focused punishment is an established feature of the antitrust enforcement landscape within the EU In recent years however focus has also been placed on the individuals within the firms responsible for the cartel activity It is increasingly recognized that punishment for cartel activity should be individual focused as well as firm focused Accordingly a growing tendency to criminalize cartel activity can be observed in the EU Member States The existence of such criminal sanctions within the EU presents a number of crucial challenges that need to be met if the underlying enforcement objectives are to be achieved in practice without violating prevailing legal norms For a start given the severe consequences of a custodial sentence the employment of criminal antitrust punishment must be justifiable in principle one must have a robust normative framework rationalizing the existence of criminal cartel sanctions Second for it to be legitimate antitrust criminalization should only occur in a manner that respects the mandatory legalities applicable to the European jurisdiction in question These include the due process rights of the accused and the principle of legal certainty Finally the correct practical measures such as a criminal leniency policy and a correctly defined criminal cartel offence need to be in place in order to ensure that the employment of criminal antitrust punishment actually achieves its aims while maintaining its legitimacy These three particular challenges can be conceptualized respectively as the theoretical legal and practical challenges of European antitrust criminalization This book analyses these three crucial challenges so that the complexity of the process of European antitrust criminalization can be understood more accurately In doing so this book acknowledges that the three challenges should not be considered in isolation In fact there is a dynamic relationship between the theoretical legal and practical challenges of European antitrust criminalization and an effective antitrust criminalization policy is one which recognizes and respects this complex interaction
