Ec Securities Regulation:

EC Securities Regulation Niamh Moloney, 2002-01 This book provides an extensive and critical assessment of the EC system of securities and investment services market regulation or EC securities regulation With the introduction of the Euro the rapid evolution of EC securities markets and the adoption of the 1999 Financial Services Action Plan completion of the single market in securities and investment services has emerged as a high profile priority at EC level While the main planks of the legal framework of the single market in securities and investment services are now in place the strains which the rapidly developing EC securities market is placing on this regime are also becoming apparent as EC capital markets deepen stock exchanges link up trading platforms develop and retail investors through the internet are exposed to the wider EC marketplace The object of this book is to consolidate and provide a critical assessment of this important body of law and its underlying policies and themes at a critical point in its development While the book assesses how EC securities regulation has sought to construct a single market in securities and investment services it also evaluates the substantive rules of the regime including the EC issuer disclosure regime the prudential and protective rules applicable to investment services providers and the securities trading markets regime as well as the relevant Treaty provisions and the case law of the Court of Justice The text also deals with the most recent developments in the area including the progress towards completion of the Financial Services Action Plan the implications of the Lamfalussy law making model and the review currently underway of the pivotal Investment Services Directive

EU Securities and Financial Markets Regulation Niamh Moloney, 2014-10-23 The Global Financial Crisis has re ordered how the EU intervenes in the EU financial market both with respect to regulation and with respect to supervision After 5 years of a behemoth reform agenda the new landscape is now clear Rule making power has decisively moved to the EU and radical reforms have been made to the organization of supervision EU Securities and Financial Markets Regulation provides the first comprehensive critical and contextual account of the vast new rule book which now applies to the EU financial market in the aftermath of the seismic reforms which have followed the financial crisis Topics covered in depth include the AIFMD EMIR the Short Selling Regulation the new market abuse and transparency regimes the rating agency regime the UCITS IV VI reforms and MiFID II MiFIR the analysis is wide reaching extending to secondary legislation and relevant soft law The book also examines the far reaching institutional changes which have followed and considers in detail the role and impact of the European Securities and Markets Authority and the potential impact of the Single Supervisory Mechanism for euro area banks on the supervision of the EU financial market EU Securities and Financial Markets Regulation is the third edition of the highly successful and authoritative monograph first published as EC Securities Regulation Almost entirely recast and re written from the 2008 second edition to reflect the changes wrought by the Global Financial Crisis it adopts the in depth contextual and analytical approach of earlier editions and so considers the market political international institutional and constitutional context of the new regulatory and supervisory regime and the underlying forces which have and will continue to shape it EC Securities Regulation, A Single Regime for an Integrated Securities Market Emiliios Avgouleas,2009 EC securities regulation has been one of the cornerstones of all policy initiatives aiming at the integration of EU financial markets Yet the development of this body of EC law has been a very lengthy process frequently marred by controversy Arguably a marked lack of direction has been its most distinctive characteristic for almost two decades This was caused by three factors The first factor was the existence of conflicting national agendas motivated by a desire to protect and preserve domestic investment firms national securities markets and local business customs The second factor was the unwillingness of the global financial services industry to engage in a constructive dialogue and find a common language with EU legislators The third factor was the inability of EU officials and legislators to fully understand the intricacies of modern financial markets and in particular their global nature and the fast pace of innovation within them This resulted in the production of legislation that often reflected the reserve awe and prejudice with which EC bodies used to view the workings of global finance A good number of these dysfunctions have been addressed by the European Union s Action Plan for Financial Services FSAP and the introduction of the Lamfalussy process EC legislation passed in the context of FSAP departs radically from the principle of minimum harmonization and creates self standing Pan European regulatory regimes in a number of areas most notably in the areas of market abuse investment firm retail customer relations operation of licensed financial exchanges and of Alternative Trading Systems ATS Furthermore FSAP legislation upgrades the EC legal framework that governs the regulation and supervision of investment firms and the public offer of securities and their admission to trading on securities exchanges This article provides a critical overview of FSAP Securities Regulation Directives and highlights the challenges their implementation has created
