Report of the European Anti-fraud Office

European Commission. European Anti-Fraud Office, 2008 Version OLAF's mission and working methods OLAF's workload OLAF's added value some case studies Cooperation with OLAF's partners a key factor in the fight against fraud Eighth activity report OLAF's mission and working methods Statistical trends in operational activities 2003-2007 Operational activities in 2007 Operational support Cooperation with OLAF's partners in the fight against fraud Budget House of Lords - European Union Committee: Subsidiarity Assessment: The European Public Prosecutors Office - HL 65 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2013-10-24 As the Committee highlighted in its report The Fight Against Fraud on the EU's Finances it is difficult to estimate the extent of fraud committed against the EU budget That report suggested that the figure could be 5 billion euro per year or more For the purposes of its Impact Assessment the Commission has conservatively assumed that about 3 billion euro per year could be at risk through fraud These are significant amounts and both Member States and the EU as a whole have a strong interest in reducing the level EU fraud In broad terms the Commission's proposed response to this level of fraud is to establish the European Public Prosecutor's Office EPPO as an EU body with exclusive power to investigate and prosecute a broad range of criminal offences affecting the financial interests of the Union and inextricably linked offences able to call upon the resources of national authorities This would create a very significant and disruptive incursion into the sensitive criminal law systems of the Member States The House of Lords considers that such action at EU level would breach the principle of subsidiarity in that it is unnecessary excessive and insufficiently justified by the Commission It considers that the objective of countering fraud affecting the financial interests of the Union can best be achieved by action by the Member States within the existing framework for coordination and cooperation This framework is capable if necessary of being strengthened to meet this objective effectively European Access, 2002 An Introductory Guide to EC Competition Law and Practice Valentine Korah, 1994 The Federal Reporter, 1885 Includes cases argued and determined in the District Courts of the United States and Mar May 1880 Oct Nov 1912 the Circuit Courts of the United States Sept Dec 1891 Sept Nov 1924 the Circuit Courts of Appeals of the United States Aug Oct 1911 Jan Feb 1914 the Commerce Court of the United States Sept Oct 1919 Sept Nov 1924 the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia The Northwestern Miller, 1910 Legal Issues of European Integration, 1997 Cases Determined in the Supreme Court of the State of Oklahoma Oklahoma. system and budget procedure had been introduced following the proposals contained in the Delors package In 1995 a new financial framework had just been adopted for the period 1993 99 taking into account the Treaty on European Union and the accession of three new Member States This new edition takes on board the impact of the Agenda 2000 financial framework adopted at the Berlin European Council in March 1999 A coherent set of measures has been taken to pave the way for the next enlargement and major reforms have been introduced in the biggest areas of Union expenditure the common agricultural policy and structural operations As this new financial framework is put in place the European Commission is reforming its own internal workings and procedures to increase its effectiveness One of the main strands of this reform is to modernise financial management This should lead to more efficient financial procedures and quicker payments as part of a general drive to make better use of taxpayers money The Commission s administrative reforms also include a new strategic planning system designed to ensure a closer match between activities performed and resources allocated This entails a radical overhaul of the process for preparing the Commission s preliminary draft budget The purpose of this publication is to provide an insight into Community public finances that if not exhaustive is at least wide ranging and accurate With its division into separate chapters and the inclusion of a detailed summary it can also serve as a reference work The finances of the European Union are in constant development The system they represent is both a legacy of the past which explains some of its complexity and an ongoing effort to improve and adapt Further changes will be needed in the years ahead for example to meet the challenge of enlargement The Intergovernmental Conference in 2004 will be an opportunity to reform the Community system of finance Also as this edition goes to press a proposal for recasting the financial regulation is nearing adoption We have therefore included a discussion of the prospects for the future
