A Sportsman's Notebook:

A Sportsman's Notebook Ivan Turgenev, 1992-03-10 Ivan Turgenev's first literary masterpiece is a sweeping portrayal of the magnificent nineteenth century Russian countryside and the harsh lives of those who inhabited it. In a series of sketches a hunter wanders through the vast landscape of steppe and forest in search of game encountering a varied cast of peasants, landlords, bailiffs, overseers, horse traders, and merchants. He witnesses both feudal tyranny and the fatalistic submission of the tyrannized against a backdrop of the sublime and pitiless terrain of rural Russia. These beautifully embellished evocative stories were not only universally popular with the reading public but through the influence they exerted on important members of the Tsarist bureaucracy contributed to the major political event of mid nineteenth century Russia the Great Emancipation of the serfs in 1861. Rarely has a book that offers such undiluted literary pleasure also been so strong a force for significant social change. With an introduction by Ivan Turgenev this version was translated by Charles and Natasha Hepburn.

These exquisitely rendered stories now with a stirring introduction from Daniyal Mueenuddin were not only universally popular with the reading public but through the influence they exerted on important members of the Tsarist bureaucracy contributed to the major political event of mid nineteenth century Russia the Great Emancipation of the serfs in 1861. Rarely has a book that offers such undiluted literary pleasure also been so strong a force for significant social change one that continues to speak to readers centuries later.

A Sportsman's Sketches IVAN SERGEEVICH. TURGENEV, 2022-05-14 A Sportsman's Sketches also known as A Sportman's Notebook The Hunting Sketches and Sketches from a Hunter's Album is an 1852 cycle of short stories by Ivan Turgenev. It was the first major writing that gained him recognition. This work is part of the Russian realist tradition in that the narrator is usually an uncommitted observer of the people he meets. This series of short stories revealed Turgenev's unique talent as a short story writer. Evidently it greatly influenced all Russian short story writers of the late 19th and early 20th centuries such as Anton Chekhov, Ivan Bunin, Alexander Kuprin, and many others. Other world writers also admired Turgenev's style. Sherwood Anderson was particularly influenced by Turgenev's literature. He considered A light of his own perceptions while hunting at his mother's Spasskoye estate where he learned of the unfair plights of the peasants and the shameful acts of the Russian monarchy that controlled them. Also, the continuous rancor by Turgenev's own mother positively affected this work. The stories were initially distributed separately in The Contemporary before showing up in 1852 in book form. He was about to quit writing when his first story, Khor and Kalinich, was generally welcomed. This work is a piece of the Russian realist convention in that the storyteller is normally an uncommitted onlooker of the general population which he interacts with throughout the story. This work in general really caused Turgenev to be imprisoned at his mother's home, and also another reason is his epitaph to Nikolai Gogol while at Spasskoye. On the other hand, it seems likely that this collection of stories, due to their popularity, helped start the end of serfdom in Russia.

It was the first major writing that gained him recognition. He wrote this collection of short stories based on his own observations while hunting at his mother's estate at Spasskoye, where he learned of the abuse of the peasants and the injustices of the Russian system that constrained them. The frequent abuse of Turgenev by his mother certainly had an effect on this work. The stories were first published singly in The Contemporary before appearing in 1852 in book form. He was about to give up writing when the first story, Khor and Kalinich, was well received.
