Turning with the Tide and Time in the Salish Sea: Change in Estuary and Nearshore Habitats and Species Dependent on Them Correigh M. Greene,Elene Marie Trujillo,Phoebe Gross,Letitia Conway-Cranos,Michael LeMoine,Kathryn Sobocinski,Joshua Chamberlin,Jonathan Moore ,Julie S. Barber,2026-03-26 Intertidal environments of inland seas around the world face numerous threats due to natural sensitivity and cumulative anthropogenic impacts of urbanization and climate change These changes have impacted fish shellfish and other species that use these habitats but have also motivated people to restore intertidal habitats How these habitats and species respond to both impacts and recovery efforts remain issues of international importance The Salish Sea an ecoregion of the northeast Pacific that straddles British Columbia and US Washington State provides key examples of these issues 1 cumulative impacts to intertidal habitats 2 sensitive and threatened species using these systems for rearing as juveniles 3 concerted efforts to restore these habitats and recover species This collection will provide cutting edge analyses of habitat impacts restoration efforts and population responses from multiple areas in the Salish Sea and offer broader lessons for the science and management of intertidal habitats in other regions The goals of this Research Topic are to 1 conceptualize and characterize the anthropogenic change in intertidal environments and the organisms dependent on them 2 evaluate cumulative effects including multiple anthropogenic impacts the effects of restoration actions and climate impacts and 3 highlight creative and cutting edge approaches for studying these questions We are seeking manuscripts featuring new conceptual and analytic approaches methods addressing cumulative effects in intertidal habitats evaluation of large scale restoration benefits on species retrospective analysis of change and evaluations of species responses to changing intertidal conditions Manuscripts should both address change in Salish Sea environments and provide insight into approaches that will be relevant to other regions of the world We are also seeking cross pollination of these studies during the review process contributors should expect to also act as peer reviewers for one manuscript for the Research Topic Please contact any of the editors if you have any additional questions

Contemporary Studies on Fish Feeding Charles A. Simenstad,Gregor M. Cailliet,2013-11-11 GUTSHOP 84 was the fourth in a series of workshops on various aspects of fish feeding Table 1 Initially the organizers merely invited regional Pacific Northwest fisheries scientists to share and possibly develop mutual solutions to the many technical problems associated with trying to obtain meaningful quantitative information from fish stomach contents and the subsequent statistical treatment and interpretation of the multivariate data Since then although not explicitly based upon any internal cycle these scientists and increasingly more and more dispersed colleagues continued to congregate for workshop deliberations every two or three years From the 49 attendees at the first workshop the number of participants had grown to 65 at GUTSHOP 78 and 107 at GUTSHOP 81 By the third workshop we were drawing scientists from across the U S and

Canada and from as far away as Norway The topical content of the workshops has also evolved from the predominantly technical aspects of fish collection and stomach contents processing techniques statistical analysis and data manipulation and presentation to considerations of theoretical ecology bioenergetics and behavior

Reassessing Paleolithic Subsistence Eugène Morin,2012-03-19 The contribution of Neandertals to the biological and cultural emergence of early modern humans remains highly debated in anthropology Particularly controversial is the long held view that Neandertals in Western Europe were replaced 30 000 to 40 000 years ago by early modern humans expanding out of Africa This book contributes to this debate by exploring the diets and foraging patterns of both Neandertals and early modern humans Eugène Morin examines the faunal remains from Saint C saire in France which contains an exceptionally long and detailed chronological sequence as well as genetic anatomical and other archaeological evidence to shed new light on the problem of modern human origins

A Time to Prey Frances Keinzley,1969 Ordinary Differential Equations: Basics and Beyond David G. Schaeffer,John W. Cain,2016-11-10 This book develops the theory of ordinary differential equations ODEs starting from an introductory level with no prior experience in ODEs assumed through to a graduate level treatment of the qualitative theory including bifurcation theory but not chaos While proofs are rigorous the exposition is reader friendly aiming for the informality of face to face interactions A unique feature of this book is the integration of rigorous theory with numerous applications of scientific interest Besides providing motivation this synthesis clarifies the theory and enhances scientific literacy Other features include i a wealth of exercises at various levels along with commentary that explains why they matter ii figures with consistent color conventions to identify nullclines periodic orbits stable and unstable manifolds and iii a dedicated website with software templates problem solutions and other resources supporting the text www.math.duke.edu/odebook Given its many applications the book may be used comfortably in science and engineering courses as well as in mathematics courses Its level is accessible to upper level undergraduates but still appropriate for graduate students The thoughtful presentation which anticipates many confusions of beginning students makes the book suitable for a teaching environment that emphasizes self directed active learning including the so called inverted classroom

Echinoderm Nutrition Michel Jangoux,John M. Lawrence,2020-08-26 The purpose of this book is to present the state of knowledge concerning nutrition and point out directions for future work for the Echinodermata an ancient group which shows great diversity in form and function and whose feeding activities can have great environmental impact

Avian Energetics and Nutritional Ecology C. Carey,2012-12-06 A symposium held in 1973 chaired and organized by William R Dawson was the first major attempt to summarize and synthesize the existing information in the then emerging field of avian energetics The symposium featured papers by James R King William A Calder III Vance A Tucker and Robert E Ricklefs and commentaries by George A Bartholomew S Charles Kendeigh and Eugene P Odum The proceedings of the symposium Avian Energetics Paynter 1974 played a critical role in stimulating interest and research in the field of avian energetics Some twenty odd years later we are making another attempt to summarize the information in the field of avian energetics. Some obvious differences exist between its predecessor and this volume. Numerous improvements in methodology such as the use of doubly labeled water to estimate metabolism in free living birds now allow researchers to ask questions that could not be addressed previously. Second consideration of nutrition is now inseparable from that of energetics. This merger is necessary not only because food intake is the source of both energy and nutrients but also because one or more nutrients rather than energy can be limiting for a given species in a particular instance. Finally the study of energetics and nutritional ecology particularly in birds and mammals has grown so dramatically that a single volume can now only partially cover the range of possible topics and can catalogue only a sampling of all the studies on the subject.

The Scottish Naturalist, 1916 The Entomologist's Monthly Magazine, 1909 A Time to Prey Julius Falconer, 2010-01-28

The doors and windows are securely locked from the inside and on his desk is a fifteenth century book in Middle French and Gothic script which he could not read. The immediate suspects are the members of his household his wife the chaplain the secretary the housekeeper his almoner and the archdeacon of Worcester. Others including a woman found casting spells in the castle grounds a young Italian lurking at night in the bishop's chapel and a suggested unknown late night visitor appear in the course of the investigation. Inspector Wickfield and his sergeant embark on a roller coaster tour of the Anglican Church in a search for motive and for a cunning killer. There are forays into Naples relics assassination locked room mysteries the cult of the saints wicca and blue moons. Follow the inspector if you dare but hold on to your hats. In this latest offering from the pen of the adept Julius Falconer you will be instructed entertained and intrigued in equal measure.
