Transport in Plants II U. Lüttge, M.G. Pitman, 2012-12-06 As plant physiology increased steadily in the latter half of the 19th century problems of absorption and transport of water and of mineral nutrients and problems of the passage of metabolites from one cell to another were investigated especially in Germany JUSTUS VON LIEBIG who was born in Darmstadt in 1803 founded agricultural chemistry and developed the techniques of mineral nutrition in agriculture during the 70 years of his life The discovery of plasmolysis by NAGEL 1851 the investigation of permeability problems of artificial membranes by TRAUBE 1867 and the classical work on osmosis by PFEFFER 1877 laid the foundations for our understanding of soluble substances and osmosis in cell growth and cell mechanisms Since living membranes were responsible for controlling both water movement and the substances in solution permeability became a major topic for investigation and speculation The problems then discussed under that heading included passive permeation by diffusion Donnan equilibrium adjustments active transport processes and antagonism between ions In that era when organelle isolation by differential centrifugation was unknown and the electron microscope had not been invented the number of cell membranes their thickness and their composition were matters for conjecture The nature of cell surface membranes was deduced with remarkable accuracy from the reactions of cells to substances in solution In 1895 OVERTON in U S A published the hypothesis that membranes were probably lipid in nature because of the greater penetration by substances with higher fat solubility

Tissue Growth Factors R. Baserga, 2012-12-06 From a logical point of view cell division is regulated by the environment and by the ability of the cell to respond to the environmental signals The terminology of the cell cycle the elaborate mathematical models and the kinetic analyses are all convenient notations and descriptions of the behavior of populations of cells However they tell us very little about the fundamental molecular mechanisms that control cell proliferation Stated in other terms what controls cell reproduction are growth factors in the environment and genes and gene products inside the cell or at its surface This book examines the aforementioned growth factors the study of which has made very rapid progress in the past few years The selection of topics has been influenced by logistic considerations but the book as a whole gives a broad survey of the state of the art of this exciting field For this thanks are due to the contributors who have given much time to the preparation of the manuscripts and have met the deadline with a punctuality that is uncommon among biomedical scientists I would also like to thank Ms NORA PERRETT and the staff of Springer Verlag for their help in editing the manuscripts and in preparing the production of the book
