A Christina Stead Reader:

A Christina Stead Reader Christina Stead, 1978      Christina Stead Susan Sheridan, 1988      Christina Stead Diana Brydon, 1987-01-01 Stead's novels have gained growing readership and critical attention in recent years. This feminist reading of the life and work of Christina Stead focuses on her characters and themes that question established assumptions about gender and class relations and the aesthetic values they support.      Christina Stead's *The Man who Loved Children and For Love Alone Laurie Clancy, 1981 The man who loved children Intensity and detachment Sam and Henry Structure of the novel War of words For love alone Rites of love Jonathan Crow James Quick      Enigmatic Christina Stead Teresa Petersen, 2016-10-18 This is a remarkably stimulating new approach to Stead's fiction and to her psyche. In this very strong reading often against the grain the author illuminates Stead's fiction in a way that has never been done before. Chris Wallace Crabbe Christina Stead is arguably Australia's greatest female novelist. Born and educated in Sydney she spent the greater part of her life abroad having left in 1928 to satisfy a wandering impulse. The most famous of her thirteen novels The Man Who Loved Children 1940 is an acknowledged masterpiece of twentieth century fiction. Stead's concentrated emotional intensity her interest in extraordinary passion and her keen sense of fantasy and the grotesque have led to comparisons with D H Lawrence Dostoevsky and Dickens. Immediately striking are her strong imaginative power and range her verbal brilliance and her acute penetration of character. The enigma identified and skilfully unravelled by Teresa Petersen surprisingly has hitherto been unexamined. Overtly Stead presents the heterosexual norm as the paradigm par excellence yet she portrays no happy heterosexual relationships or marriages only miserable compromises. More covertly lesbian eroticism pervades her fiction. Usually shrouded in silence it imperceptibly surfaces and disappears sliding in and out of the narrative. Petersen argues compellingly that although Stead's texts appear on the surface to be saturated with the heterosexual norm this is a facade that masks both lesbian and male homosexual desire. By elucidating Stead's subtextual preoccupation with homosexuality Petersen challenges conventional scholarship and shifts our view of both Stead's work and her life.

Christina Stead R. G. Geering, 1979      Australian Books and Authors in the American Marketplace 1840s-1940s David Carter, Roger Osborne, 2018-07-02 Australian Books and Authors in the American Marketplace 1840s-1940s explores how Australian writers and their works were present in the United States before the mid twentieth century to a much greater degree than previously acknowledged. Drawing on fresh archival research and combining the approaches of literary criticism print culture studies and book history David Carter and Roger Osborne demonstrate that Australian writing was transnational long before the contemporary period. In mapping Australian literature's connections to British and US markets their research challenges established understandings of national imperial and world literatures. Carter and Osborne examine how Australian authors editors and publishers engaged productively with their American counterparts and how American readers and reviewers responded to Australian works. They consider the role played by British publishers and agents in taking Australian writing to America and how the international circulation of new literary genres created new opportunities for novelists to move between markets Some of these writers such as Christina Stead and Patrick White remain household names others who once enjoyed international fame such as Dale Collins and Alice Grant Rosman have been largely forgotten The story of their books in America reveals how culture commerce and copyright law interacted to create both opportunities and obstacles for Australian writers

Reading Across the Pacific Robert Dixon, Nicholas Birns, 2010 Reading Across the Pacific is a study of literary and cultural engagement between the United States and Australia from a contemporary interdisciplinary perspective The book examines the relations of the two countries shifting the emphasis from the broad cultural patterns that are often compared to the specific networks interactions and crossings that have characterised Australian literature in the United States and American literature in Australia In the 21st century both American and Australian literatures are experiencing new challenges to the very different paradigms of literary history and criticism each inherited from the 20th century In response to these challenges scholars of both literatures are seizing the opportunity to reassess and reconfigure the conceptual geography of national literary spaces as they are reformed by vectors that evade or exceed them including the transnational the local and the global The essays in Reading Across the Pacific are divided into five sections National literatures and transnationalism Poetry and poetics Literature and popular culture The Cold War and Publishing history and transpacific print cultures
