Think No Evil C. Fred Alford, 2018-10-18 In this investigation of the contemporary notion of evil C. Fred Alford asks what we can learn about this concept and about ourselves by examining a society where it is unknown where language contains no word that equates to the English term evil Does such a society look upon human nature more benignly Do its members view the world through rose colored glasses Korea offers a fascinating starting point and Alford begins his search for answers there In conversations with hundreds of Koreans from diverse religions and walks of life students politicians teachers Buddhist monks Confucian scholars Catholic priests housewives psychiatrists and farmers Alford found remarkable agreement about the nonexistence of evil Koreans regard evil not as a moral category but as an intellectual one the result of erroneous Western thinking For them evil results from the creation of dualisms oppositions between people and ideas Alford s interviews often led to discussions about imported ways of thinking and the impact of globalization upon society at large In particular he was struck by how Koreans responses to globalization matched Westerners views about evil In much of the world he argues globalization is the ultimate dualism attractive for the enlightenment and freedom it brings terrifying for the great social and personal upheaval it can cause
