Beginners Faith In Things Unseen:

A Beginner's Faith in Things Unseen John Hay, 1996-06-30 In A Beginner's Faith in Things Unseen John Hay writes from the vantage point of eighty and like no other American writer on what he calls the real world Hay returns to memories of a boyhood divided between Manhattan and the deep woods of Sunapee New Hampshire to a time when he knew one should always be outdoors with the unregistered and the unsigned He writes with precision and beauty of pilot whale strandings on Cape Cod's Outer Beach and of the attendant human confusion and greed and of the sweep of a century in which our modern owned world is going deaf from listening to its own answers Hay keeps company with Maine barn swallows and finds in the Lakota Sioux Grass Dance a way to listen to the wind Always through often uncannily affecting language John Hay shows us just which ceremonies we all must attend to

In the Company of Light John Hay, 1999-02-23 In the Company of Light begins at the end of summer in Maine when the swallows, harbor seals, and shore birds fly ahead of the mind's ability to grasp them. Hay writes of the profound engagement of migration and of the seasonal pull that has him restless to join the great company of life on the planet. Hay's searching, visionary prose details a wealth of late summer encounters with a kingfisher providing a blue opening into space and with a weasel made in order to chase its own life to the end of possibility. He returns at season's end to his Cape Cod home to a landscape he has made his own for fifty years where he discovers foxfire in the woodpile and the strange bioluminescence of the sunfish which carries its reflected light in the dark seas like the mood between the clouds.

Following Isabella Robert Root, 2011-12-07 A world traveler Isabella Bird recorded her 1873 visit to Colorado Territory in her classic travel narrative A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains. This work inspired Robert Root's own discovery of Colorado's Front Range following his move from the flatlands of Michigan. In this elegantly written book, Root retraces Bird's three-month journey seeking to understand what Colorado meant to her and what it would come to mean for him. Following Isabella is a work of intersecting histories. Root interweaves an overview of Bird's life and work with regional history, nature writing, and his own travels to produce a uniquely informative and entertaining narrative. He probes Bird's self-transformation as her writing moved from private letters to published books and also draws on reflections of other authors of her day, including Grace Greenwood and Helen Hunt Jackson. Like Bird, Root experiences his most fulfilling moments in the mountains, climbing formidable Longs Peak, living alone in the cabin of famed editor William Allen White, and wandering wild landscapes. Through reflections on earlier writers' experiences and by weighing his own response to them, Root learns not only how to come to Colorado as visitors so often do, but more important, how to stay.
