Beinecke Lesser Antilles Collection At Hamilton College:

The Beinecke Lesser Antilles Collection at Hamilton College Samuel J. Hough, Penelope R. O. Hough, 1994 This distinguished catalogue of the Lesser Antilles provides extensive precise descriptions of approximately one thousand printed books and one thousand manuscripts that Walter Beinecke Jr collected over several decades and donated to Hamilton College in Clinton New York where he is a trustee The collection includes hundreds of rare original documents fifty maps plantation reports correspondence and oil paintings and watercolors The catalogue of the Walter Beinecke Jr Collection describes unique manuscript material and many rare books more fully than previously available in bibliographies The Houghs have applied advanced bibliographical knowledge to this work and in some instances have added cogent historical annotation The collection s content addresses issues of broad international significance Full understanding of the early history of the United States can best be achieved by studying interaction among the European states and the Antilles as well as the commercial connection between the continental colonies and the Antilles During the century and a half represented in this collection England grew from a northern European power to a dominant world power its growth largely funded by wealth provided from the Indies

Jean Rhys's Modernist Bearings and Experimental Aesthetics Sue Thomas, 2022-01-27 Addressing Jean Rhys s composition and positioning of her fiction this book invites and challenges us to read the tacit silent and explicit textual bearings she offers and reveals new insights about the formation scope and complexity of Rhys s experimental aesthetics Tracing the distinctive and shifting evolution of Rhys s experimental aesthetics over her career Sue Thomas explores Rhys s practices of composition in her fiction and drafts as well as her self reflective comment on her writing The author examines patterns of interrelation intertextuality intermediality and allusion both diachronic and synchronic as well as the cultural histories entwined within them Through close analysis of these this book reveals new experimental thematic generic and political reaches of Rhys s fiction and sharpens our insight into her complex writerly affiliations and lineages

Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds Mackenzie Cooley, Anna Toledano, Duygu Yildirim, 2023-05-09 The essays and original visualizations collected in Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds explore the relationships among natural things ranging from pollen in a gust of wind to a carnivorous pitcher plant to a shell like skinned armadillo and the humans enthralled with them Episodes from 1500 to the early 1900s reveal connected histories across early modern worlds as natural things traveled across the Indian Ocean the Ottoman Empire Pacific islands Southeast Asia the Spanish Empire and Western Europe In distant worlds that were constantly changing with expanding networks of trade colonial aspirations and the rise of empiricism natural things obtained new meanings and became alienated from their origins Tracing the processes of their displacement each chapter starts with a piece of original artwork that relies on digital collage to pull image sources out of place and to represent meanings that natural things lost and remade Accessible and elegant Natural Things is the first study of its kind to combine original visualizations with the history of science Museum goers scholars scientists and students will find new histories of nature and collecting within Its playful visuality will capture the imagination of non academic and academic readers alike while reminding us of the alienating capacity of the modern life sciences Cultivating and

Communicating Natural and Technical Knowledge around 1800 Nikolaj Bijleveld,Arjen Dijkstra,Samuel Gessner,2025-10-01 This is a book about some of the unexpected people and places involved in cultivating knowledge of the natural world and mastery of scientific apparatus around 1800 taking readers across continental Europe from the Enlightenment to the onset of academic professionalisation The authors widen the horizon of inquiry by looking beyond the scientific elite of academies and prestigious science sponsored by princely courts the focus of previous major studies of this time period They consider people of diverse professions and occupations who advanced scientific knowledge through practical means by devoting their spare time and personal resources thereby crossing geographic linguistic and societal barriers The case studies together demonstrate that such individuals contributed substantially to the spread of new knowledge and found ways to contribute technical innovations to society The present volume is devoted to these people the devotees of science

G.K. Hall Interdisciplinary Bibliographic Guide to Black Studies Schomburg Center for Research in Black Culture,2000 Early Printing in Saint Vincent Gregory

Frohnsdorff,2009 Although academic interest in the Caribbean region s history and culture has increased in recent years past studies of West Indian printing history have failed to focus on Saint Vincent resulting in sketchy and inaccurate information regarding printing on the island Correcting that oversight this book reveals that printing began in Kingstown as early as 1767 and it traces the island s printing history through 1834 the year slavery was abolished in the British West Indies Several early printers are identified including William Smith Joseph Berrow James Adams J T Calliard John Drape and Thomas LeGall and details about them and some of their publications are provided Newspapers and official documents such as acts and proclamations are shown to have been the main products of the island s presses The book discusses the use of slaves by printers touches on other race related matters and provides insight into an 1830s battle for the right to serve as the island s government printer Few early Saint Vincent imprints are known to have survived but Early Printing in Saint Vincent includes an annotated list of more than 250 items printed in Saint Vincent prior to 1835 thus helping to close a large gap that has existed in West Indian bibliography The book concludes with examples of Saint Vincent advertisements and an index Illustrated in black and white

The Bright-Meyler Papers Kenneth Morgan,2007-12-27 These documents illuminate the conduct of British trade in the Caribbean when slavery was at its height and Jamaica was the wealthiest territory in Britain s Atlantic empire Detailing the commercial and plantation interests of two Bristol families the volume sheds light on how fortunes were created by merchants striving for social improvement

The Life of Olaudah Equiano Olaudah Equiano,2004 Publisher description In this eighteenth century memoir Olaudah Equiano recounts his remarkable life story which begins when he is kidnapped in Africa as a boy and sold into slavery and culminates when he has achieved renown as a British antislavery advocate

The Letters of William Freeman, London Merchant, 1678-1685 William Freeman,2002 This volume provides a key to the enormously detailed and valuable records of the Court of Exchequer s proceedings in equity which have hitherto been difficult to use because of a lack of detailed indexes The records kept at the Public Record Office contain a wealth of information about many aspects of London history business and trade individuals and families the theatre the opera and much more The calendar covers two sample years from this huge body of records illustrating the type of information that can be found and the form in which it appears

"The Garden of the World" Dan Hicks,2007 Studies in Contemporary and Historical Archaeology 3 This study uses the perspectives of what might be termed the empirical tradition of British landscape archaeology that developed in the 1960s and 1970s especially in industrial archaeology to explore the early modern history of the garden landscapes formed by British colonialism in the eastern Caribbean and their place in the world. It presents a detailed chronological sequence of the changing material conditions of these English British owned plantation landscapes during the 17th, 18th and early 19th centuries with particular reference to the origins, history and legacies of the sugar industry. The study draws together the results of archaeological fieldwork and documentary research to present a progressive account of the historical landscapes of the islands of St Kitts and St Lucia, sketching a chronological outline of landscape change. This approach to landscape is characterised by the integration of archaeological field survey, standing buildings, recording alongside documentary and cartographic sources and focuses upon producing accounts of material change to landscapes and buildings. By providing a long term perspective on eastern Caribbean colonial history from the nature of early effectively prehistoric contact and interaction in the 16th century through early permanent European settlements and into the developed sugar societies of the 18th and 19th centuries, the study suggests a temporal and thematic framework of landscape change that might inform the further development of historical archaeology in the island Caribbean region. The broader aim of the study relates to exploring how archaeological techniques can be used to contribute a highly detailed empirical case study to the interdisciplinary study of postcolonial landscapes and British colonialism. In order to achieve this goal, the study draws upon the techniques of what has been called the empirical tradition of landscape archaeology.
