Being Pakeha Now Reflections And Recollections Of A White Native:

Being Pakeha Now Michael King, 2013-08-01 First published in 1985 Michael King's Being Pakeha became a gentle Kiwi classic a strong reply both to Maori who were asserting their own identity and also to Pakeha who mumbled that they didn't have a strong culture and identity of their own Being Pakeha Now is an updated edition that reflects on these issues and how they have changed and evolved over the last fifteen years The theme of Being Pakeha is that white New Zealanders do indeed belong to a strong culture which is called Pakeha and which is different strong and definable and worth celebrating In this revised edition King rewrites the Introduction and updates many of the chapters In addition he offers two new chapters one on his experiences with Moriori and the Chathams and the other on his involvement in the NZ literary community

Materialisations of a Woman Writer Maria Wikse, 2006 Janet Frame's literary career was inextricably woven into the fabric of the twentieth century New Zealand literary scene However she also became New Zealand's best known international writer and her great literary influence in both fields has not been charted before now This study also seeks to redress the excessive commitment in scholarship to maintaining even celebrating Frame's reputation as a psychologically disturbed writer This book surveys all aspects of Janet Frame's biographical legend by considering her later literary and autobiographical works Jane Campion's film adaptation of the autobiographies An Angel at my Table as well as biographies and literary histories that both rely on and contribute to her well known legend In doing so the author hopes to offer novel perspectives on Frame's literary production on Frame scholarship on autobiographical theories and on New Zealand literary history

White Boys, White Noise: Masculinities and 1980s Indie Guitar Rock Dr Matthew Bannister, 2013-01-28 To what extent do indie masculinities challenge the historical construction of rock music as patriarchal This key question is addressed by Matthew Bannister involving an in depth examination of indie guitar rock in the 1980s as the culturally and historically specific production of white men Through textual analysis of musical and critical discourses Bannister provides the first book length study of masculinity and ethnicity within the context of indie guitar music within US UK and New Zealand scenes Bannister argues that past theorisations of rock masculinities have tended to set up varieties of working class deviance and physical machismo as straw men oversimplifying masculinities as men behaving badly Such approaches disavow the ways that masculine power is articulated in culture not only through representation but also intellectual and theoretical discourse By re situating indie in a historical cultural context of art rock he shows how masculine power can be rearticulated through high avant garde bohemian culture and aesthetic theory

canonism negation Adorno passivity voyeurism and camp Andy Warhol and the Velvet Underground and primitivism and infantilism Lester Bangs Simon Reynolds In a related vein he also assesses the impact of Freud on cultural theory arguing that reversing binary conceptions of gender by associating masculinities with an essentialised passive femininity perpetuates patriarchal dualism Drawing on his own experience as an indie musician Bannister surveys a range of indie artists including The Smiths The Jesus and Mary Chain My Bloody Valentine and The Go Betweens from the US R E M The Replacements Dinosaur Jr Hsker D Nirvana and hardcore and from NZ Flying Nun acts including The Chills The Clean the Verlaines Chris Knox Bailter Space and The Bats demonstrating broad continuities between these apparently disparate scenes in terms of gender aesthetic theory and approaches to popular musical history The result is a book which raises some important questions about how gender is studied in popular culture and the degree to which alternative cultures can critique dominant representations of gender

The Penguin History of New Zealand Michael King, 2023-10-10 This bestselling book by the late Michael King is the unchallenged contemporary reference on the history of New Zealand First published in 2003 and hailed as a triumph of careful research wide reading and judicious assessment it has been continuously in print for 20 years and has sold over 300 000 copies It remains the definitive yet highly readable starting point for anybody wanting to understand this country New Zealand was the last country in the world to be discovered and settled by humankind It was also the first to introduce full democracy Between those events and in the century that followed the movements and conflicts of human history have been played out more intensively and more rapidly in New Zealand than anywhere else on Earth The Penguin History of New Zealand tells that story in all its colour and drama The narrative that emerges is an inclusive one about men and women Mori and Pkeh It shows that British motives in colonising New Zealand were essentially humane and that Mori far from being passive victims of a fatal impact coped heroically with colonisation and survived by selectively accepting and adapting what Western technology and culture had to offer Now more relevant than ever this edition includes a Foreword by Sir Tipene O Regan and a biographical essay on the author by Jock Phillips PLATINUM PREMIER NEW ZEALAND BESTSELLER READERS CHOICE AWARD 2004 MONTANA NEW ZEALAND BOOK AWARDS NIELSEN BOOKDATA NEW ZEALAND BOOKSELLERS CHOICE AWARD BEST OF THE BEST 2011

Being Pakeha Now Michael King,1999 In Being Pakeha Now Michael King carries the cultural debate forward While recognising and respecting the place of Maori in New Zealand he argues that Pakeha too belong inescapably to this country and have no other home Just as imported East Polynesian ingredients were eventually transmuted into Maori culture so the attitudes and values carried by Europeans have been transformed here in interaction with forest mountain and sea and with Maori They have coalesced into a second indigenous culture that of Pakeha New Zealanders The wooden church and the macrocarpa King asserts are as much a part of the spiritual and physical landscape of Aotearoa New Zealand as the meeting house and the cabbage tree Back cover
