Collective Search for Identity Orrin Edgar Klapp, 1969 From the Preface This book is about identity seeking movements of modern society It deals with such things as fashions fads poses ritual cultic movements recreation heroes and celebrities and crusades from the point of view of what they tell about the identity search of a mass society My view briefly is that a collective identity search is symptomatic of the fact that some modern social systems deprive people of psychological payoffs the lack of which expressed by terms such as alienation meaninglessness identity problem motivates a mass groping for activities and symbols with which to restore or find new identity People grope because they do not really know what is wrong especially when there is physical prosperity yet a sense of being cheated When mass movements become concerned with identity they develop certain characteristics such as ego screaming concern with costume and self ornamentation style rebellion concern with emotional gestures rather than practical effects adulation of heroes cultism and the like with which I shall deal Such signs show that ordinary economic and political solutions are not what is wanted People feel the futility and irrelevance of such measures yet do not know quite what else to do

The Reagan Range James E. Combs,1993 By looking at Reagan as a nostalgic representation we then gain insight into our desire to link the American past with the present and understand more fully what the mythic past and its current political representation means to us Reagan meant something deeper to us as a people than merely a political ideology and an agenda and it is the burden of this book to attempt illumination of that meaning If the reader can take away from it deeper understanding of both Reagan and the America he proclaimed then she or he can gain access to the warp and woof of popular knowledge the true subject of the book and the real source of Reagan s appeal The book ranges over the images and institutions of Reagan country the town the family the business the church and throughout the personality who represented these nostalgic formations to us
