The Economics of the Modern Construction Firm S. Gruneberg, Graham J. Ive, 2000-08-08 This is a book about the whole diverse range of firms that are found in the construction sector about their decision making and the economic environments in which they operate The authors aim to provide a new and coherent perspective on these firms and the choices they have to make both for their managers and for all who have a stake in these firms and their industry This book offers some new and important perspectives for research and teaching about construction firms

The Construction of Europe S. Martin, 2013-03-09 Stephen Martin The fourteen essays that constitute this work provide a coherent review of the past and present of the European Community and consider some of its possible futures Werner Abelshauser and Richard Griffiths offer separate perspectives on the precursors of the European Community Abelshauser argues that comparison of the fates of the European Coal and Steel Community and the European Defense Community demonstrate the dominance of political over economic considerations in the integration process Griffiths considers the stillborn European Political Community many of the proposed features of which somewhat transformed were embodied in the Treaty of Rome Both suggest that as a practical matter a coming together of French and German interests has been a precondition for advances in European integration Stephen Martin and Andrew Evans discuss the development of the Community's Structural Funds first envisaged as tools to smooth the transition from a collection of regional economies to a continent wide single market now increasingly seen as devices to guide adjustment to long term structural problems Stuart Holland emphasizes the role of the Structural Funds as one element in a broad range of strategies to ensure social and economic cohesion as the Maastricht Treaty ushers the European Union into the next stage of its development
