Country Journal:

The Country Newspaper Malcolm Macdonald Willey, 1926 Vegetarian Times, 1981-03 To do what no other magazine does Deliver simple delicious food plus expert health and lifestyle information that s exclusively vegetarian but wrapped in a fresh stylish mainstream package that s inviting to all Because while vegetarians are a great vital passionate niche their healthy way of eating and the earth friendly values it inspires appeals to an increasingly large group of Americans VT s goal To embrace both Contested Empire John Phillip Reid, 2002 Do law and legal procedures exist only so long as there is an official authority to enforce them Or do we have an unspoken sense of law and ethics To answer these questions John Phillip Reid s Contested Empire explores the implicit notions of law shared by American and British fur traders in the Snake River country of Idaho and surrounding areas in the early nineteenth century Both the United States and Great Britain had claimed this region and passions were intense Focusing mainly on Canadian explorer and trader Peter Skene Ogden Reid finds that both side largely avoided violence and other difficulties because they held the same definitions of property contract conversion and possession In 1824 the Hudson s Bay Company directed Ogden to decimate the furbearing animal population of the Snake River country thus marking the region a fur desert With this mandate Great Britain hoped to neutralize any interest American furtrappers could have in the area Such a mandate set British and American fur men on a collision course but Ogden and his American counterparts implicitly followed a kind of law and procedure and observed a mutual sense of property and rights even as the two sides vied for control of the fur trade Failing to take legal culture into consideration some previous accounts have depicted these conflicts as mere episodes of lawless frontier violence Reid expands our understanding of the West by considering the unspoken sense of law that existed despite the lack of any formalized authorities in what had otherwise been considered a lawless time Home in the Howling Wilderness Peter Holland, 2013-11-01 During the 19th century New Zealand s South Island underwent an environmental transformation at the hands of European settlers They diverted streams and drained marshes burned native vegetation and planted hedges and grasses stocked farms with sheep and cattle and poured on fertilizer Through various letter books ledgers diaries and journals this book reveals how the first European settlers learned about their new environment talking to Maori and other Pakeha observing weather patterns and the shifting populations of rabbits reading newspapers and going to lectures at the Mechanics Institute As the New Zealand environment threw up surprise after surprise the settlers who succeeded in farming were those who listened closely to the environment This rich and detailed contribution to environmental history and the literature of British colonial history and farming concludes contrary to the assertions of some North American environmental historians that the first generation of European settlers in New Zealand were by no means unthinking agents of change Annual Report Lenox Library, 1871 Backpacker, 1977-12 Backpacker brings the outdoors straight to the reader s doorstep inspiring and enabling them to go more places and enjoy nature more often The authority on active adventure

Backpacker is the world's first GPS enabled magazine and the only magazine whose editors personally test the hiking trails camping gear and survival tips they publish Backpacker's Editors Choice Awards an industry honor recognizing design feature and product innovation has become the gold standard against which all other outdoor industry awards are measured

Emporium Edwin Barnard, 2015-03-01 Look at the Hilzinger washing machine costing 3 in 1880 It certainly seems rather primitive but did it get the clothes clean and how hard was it to operate And what about Dr Allen's belt powered by the magic of electricity Could it really help with rheumatism and lumbago as its maker promised Advertisements can reveal a great deal about an age Gleaned from the pages of long forgotten publications such as The Sydney Gazette and New South Wales Advertiser Australian Town and Country Journal and Australasian Sketcher with Pen and Pencil together with dozens of regional newspapers they paint an intriguing picture of the world of our great great grandparents With over 450 images this book is one to pore over and enjoy perhaps that electric hairbrush really did cure baldness and wouldn't it be wonderful of those strange cannabis cigarettes did relieve asthma Advertisements for condoms It was just a matter of knowing what to look for In some ways it is striking how little has changed It comes as no surprise for example to discover that colonial women found it hard to resist a bargain nor that they worried a great deal about their complexions and the sweetness of their breath Colonial men had their own concerns prominent among them those old bugbears of advancing baldness and retreating virility For those seeking to revive flagging passions there were always the racy tales advertised each week in the illustrated papers price one shilling posted in a sealed envelope Equally striking are the many differences in attitude and outlook revealed by old advertisements It is curious for example that for most of the nineteenth century nobody except perhaps the very young seem to have been much concerned about body shape It was only in the 1880s and 90s that advertisements began to appear offering products designed to deal with unsightly corpulence or to plump out that underdeveloped bosom It cannot have taken advertisers long to realise that they were onto a good thing exploiting those particular anxieties Emporium uses collections of advertisements as starting points in assembling a series of self contained snapshots Introduced by a section on shopping a succession of double page spreads each with its eyewitness accounts and contemporary descriptions work to paint a lively and entertaining picture of everyday life in the Australian colonies Although this is a book about advertising it is really also all about the everyday lives of nineteenth century Australians The focus throughout is on the lives of so called ordinary people the working men women and children whose struggles all too often merit little more than a footnote or two in many of our national histories How did they go about getting married How did they plan their families How did they keep clean How did they cook their food Advertisements can answer all these questions Humorous quirky fascinating you will find this book compulsive Edwin Barnard is an author and designer with an enduring interest in the everyday lives of nineteenth century Australians His previous books include Exiled for the National Library of Australia Edwin lives in Avalon NSW

Combat Over the Trenches Chris Clarke, 2017-10-30 Father of the Flying Corps and Father of Australian Aviation were two of the unofficial titles conferred on Oswald Toby Watt when he died in tragic circumstances shortly after the end of the First World War He had become the Australian Army s first qualified pilot in 1911 but spent the first 18 months of the war with the French Air Service the Aronautique Militaire before arranging a transfer to the Australian Imperial Force Already an experienced combat pilot he rose quickly through the ranks of the Australian Flying Corps becoming a squadron leader and leading his unit at the battle of Cambrai then commander of No 1 Training Wing with the senior AFC rank of lieutenant colonel These were elements in a colorful and at times a romantic career long existing interest and attention not just during Watt s lifetime but in the interval since his death nearly a century ago His name had been rarely out of Australian newspapers for more than a decade before the war reflecting his wealthy lifestyle and extensive and influential social and political connections But this focus has enveloped Watt s story with an array of false and misleading elements verging on mythology For the first time this book attempts to establish the true story of Watt s life and achievements and provide a proper basis for evaluating his place in Australian history

Historical Corpus Stylistics Patrick Studer,2014-02-25 This book analyzes how news discourse was shaped over time by external factors such as the historical context news production technological innovation and current affairs and as such both conformed to and deviated from generic conventions Using data from a newspaper corpus it offers the first empirical study into the development of style in early mass media In this analysis media style appears as a dynamic concept which is highly sensitive to innovative approaches towards making news not only informative but also entertaining to read This cutting edge survey will be of interest to academics researching corpus linguistics media discourse and stylistics
