Farmland Conservation Lynn V. Dicks, Joscelyne E. Ashpole, Juliana Dänhardt, Katy James, Annelie M. Jönsson, Nicola Randall, David A. Showler, Rebecca K. Smith, Susan Turpie, David R. Williams, William J. Sutherland, 2014-04-07 This synopsis covers evidence for the effects of conservation interventions for native farmland wildlife. It is restricted to evidence captured on the website www.conservationalevidence.com. It includes papers published in the journal Conservation Evidence, evidence summarized on our database and systematic reviews collated by the Collaboration for Environmental Evidence. It is the third volume in the series Synopses of Conservation Evidence. Evidence was collected from all European countries west of Russia but not those south of France, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, and Romania. A list of interventions to conserve wildlife on farmland was developed collaboratively by a team of thirteen experts. A number of interventions that are not currently agri-environment options were added during this process, such as Provide nest boxes for bees (solitary or bumblebees) and Implement food labelling schemes relating to biodiversity-friendly farming. Interventions relating to the creation or management of habitats not considered commercial farmland, such as lowland heath, salt marsh, and farm woodland, were removed. The list of interventions was organized into categories based on the International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN) classifications of direct threats and conservation actions. Interventions that fall under the threat category Agriculture are grouped by farming system, with separate sections for interventions that apply to arable or livestock farms or across all farming types.

CAP and the Rural Environment in Transition Floor Brouwer, Philip Lowe, 1998-09-01 In recent years, policy makers have had to respond to criticisms of the environmentally damaging role of the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP). The 1992 reform of the CAP partly addressed the criticisms by reducing the incentives to intensify production and by promoting the beneficial effects of agriculture on landscape and biodiversity. In assessing the consequences of these changes, it is important to bear in mind the variability of agricultural production systems and of environmental conditions in different EU Member States. Uniform responses or single environmental outcomes from a change in agricultural policy are unlikely. The book therefore addresses the environmental effects of agricultural policy reform from the different national perspectives. In providing an overview of the role of the CAP in the rural environment in transition, it explores key linkages between agricultural policy and the physical environment, landscape, and biodiversity. The book is aimed at policy makers and researchers in the fields of agricultural and environmental economics and rural geography interested in the linkages between agricultural policy and the environment.

Agri-environmental Policy in the European Union Henry Buller, Geoff Wilson, Andrea Holl, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000. This volume provides a detailed examination of agri-environmental policy within ten European states. Individual chapters consider the agricultural and environmental policy contexts within each state and examine the range and significance of agri-environmental policy proposed, in addition to their spatial and territorial impact, their policy-making implications, and their consequences for the structures institutions and actors of national farming policy both across and within national borders Drawing from ten national profiles and the data sets provided the book provides a comparative analysis of implementation trends filling a gap in the literature on this topic Taking European legislation as its starting point the comparative section of the book examines how Member States have responded to EU imperatives in their budgetary commitments in their implementation strategies and in the policy outputs that result The study identifies similarities across European nations in the territorial and agricultural focus of agri environmental policy and draws attention to the alternative

The Law of Nature Conservation Christopher Rodgers,2013-03-21 This book provides a detailed account of the UK law of nature conservation It covers all the extensive laws introduced in recent years to protect and promote the natural world examining the operation of the legislation in practice
