Students of Color and the Achievement Gap Richard R. Valencia, 2015-03-05 Students of Color and the Achievement Gap is a comprehensive landmark analysis of an incontrovertible racialized reality in U S K 12 public education the relentless achievement gap between low socioeconomic students of color and their economically advantaged White counterparts Award winning author and scholar Richard Valencia provides an authoritative and systemic treatment of the achievement gap focusing on Black and Latino Latina students He examines the societal and educational factors that help to create and maintain the achievement gap by drawing from critical race theory an asset based perspective and a systemic inequality approach By showing how racialized opportunity structures in society and schools ultimately result in racialized patterns of academic achievement in schools Valencia shows how the various indicators of the achievement gap are actually symptoms of the societal and school quality gaps Following each of these concerns Valencia provides a number of reform suggestions that can lead to systemic transformations of K 12 education Students of Color and the Achievement Gap makes a persuasive and well documented case that school success for students of color and the empowerment of their parents can only be fully understood and realized when contextualized within broader political economic and cultural frameworks

On the Same Track Carol Corbett Burris, 2015-03-17 A public school principal's account of the courageous leaders who have dismantled the tracking systems in their schools in order to desegregate classrooms What would happen if a school eliminated the tracks that rank students based on their perceived intellectual abilities Would low achieving students fall behind and become frustrated Would their higher achieving peers suffer from a watered down curriculum Or is tracking itself the problem A growing body of research shows that tracking doesn't increase learning for the minority and low income students who are overrepresented in low track classrooms This de facto segregation has led many civil rights advocates to argue that tracking is turning back the clock on equal education As a principal at a New York high school Carol Corbett Burris believed that the curriculum for the best students was the best curriculum for all She helped lead a bold plan to eliminate tracking from her school and the results couldn't have been further from the doom and gloom scenarios of tracking proponents Instead there was a dramatic improvement in the achievement of all students across racial and socioeconomic divisions and a near elimination of the achievement gap Today due to those efforts International Baccalaureate English is the twelfth grade curriculum for South Side students and all students take the same challenging courses together to prepare them for college In On the Same Track Burris draws on her own experience on the experiences of other schools and on the latest research to make an impassioned case for detracking Not only does the practice of tracking fail to benefit lower tracked students as Burris shows but it also results in the resegregation of classrooms Furthermore she argues that many of today s popular reforms emanate from the same sort and select mentality that reinforces social stratification based on race and class On the Same Track is a rousing controversial and yet optimistic account of how we need to change our assumptions and policies if we are to live up to the promise of democratic public education Only by holding all students to the same high standards can we ensure that all have the same opportunity to live up to their full potential Proven Practice ,1994 Despite the Best Intentions Amanda E. Lewis,John B. Kahlenberg,2000 The 2000 presidential campaign is ushering in a renewed focus on public education The question is what would be best for our children This volume of essays seeks to restore the notion that public education should be an engine for social mobility a concern that animated Brown v Board of Education and the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act It identifies the leading sources of inequality both in the home and in school and proposes concrete public policy remedies The authors also examine the strengths and weaknesses of summer schooling federal aid to education standards teacher enhancement charter schools and zero tolerance policies The contributors include Doris Entwisle Karl Alexander and Linda Olson Johns Hopkins University Richard Rothstein Economic Policy Institute and Occidental College Adam Gamaron University of Wisconsin Linda Darling Hammond Stanford University Amy Stuart Wells Jennifer Jellison Holme Alejandra Lopez and Camille Wilson Cooper University of California at Los Angeles Paul Barton Educational Testing Service and Ruy Teixeira The Century Foundation Books in Print ,1994 The Harvard Education Letter ,1998 Majority-minority Relations John E. A Study of Teacher Learning and Professional Development Through Collaborative Reflection on Artifacts of Practice Ann Joo Ryu,2006 The Cumulative Book Index ,1995 A world list of books in the English language Advances in Mixed-Method Evaluation: The Challenges and Benefits of Integrating Diverse Paradigms Jennifer C. Greene,Valerie J. Caracelli,1997-06-16 Evaluation theory and practice today are characteristically pluralistic embracing diverse perspectives methods data and values within and across studies that aim to generate more insightful and meaningful evaluative claims This volume of New Directions for Evaluation seeks to strengthen the promise of pluralistic evaluation by advancing an enhanced conceptual framework for planning and implementing mixed method evaluation studies Previous mixed method work has concentrated on the technical level of method focusing on combining qualitative and quantitative methods within one evaluation study The present mixed method volume addresses the philosophical level of paradigm analyzing the challenges of combining in one study different even conflicting assumptions about the nature of social phenomena and our claims to know them The volume argues for a shift in the mixed method conversation The shift would be away from a preoccupation with explicit assumptive differences among paradigms such as objectivity subjectivity and realism relativism and toward other characteristics of social inquiry traditions Such characteristics define these traditions in important ways but are not logically irreconcilable The significant advance here is to redirect the bases for mixing methods away from what may well be incommensurable philosophical assumptions and toward other inquiry characteristics that can more productively share a common analytic space Through analysis of illustrative cases this volume presents an array of conceptual and practical ideas for promising mixed method inquiry directions This is the 74th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation For more information on the series please see the Journals and Periodicals page

Rethinking Educational Change with Heart and Mind Andy Hargreaves,1997 Why does successful enduring change beyond a few isolated schools continue to elude us The fundamental problem says editor Hargreaves is that educational change is more complex and controversial than the change literature has recognized In this book Hargreaves and the other contributors move the dialogue about change beyond the technical aspects to three essential areas of teaching learning and leadership that have received only limited attention the passion purpose and politics of change Each chapter looks realistically but also optimistically at many of the complexities of change In the first chapter editor Hargreaves discusses the need for greater depth and breadth in our educational change efforts In the next few chapters authors explore the vital role of parents and communities in educational change efforts Subsequent chapters stress the value of involving students in school improvement suggest practical ideas for managing time differently and discuss the importance of clear measurable goals Other authors look at alternative assessment practices with a corresponding view of accountability. Additional topics include collaborative action research among teachers in their own schools around issues of professional interest to them as well as ways that even wider collaborations or networks foster positive change. In another chapter the authors ask whether what we know about school improvement applies to schools that are failing or seriously troubled. They examine the political as well as technical issues involved in designating a school as failing or troubled, arguing for more sophisticated ways of designation. The closing chapter expands on a theme of the opening one, the place of emotion in educational change, by discussing a second theme, that of hope, without which there is no commitment or optimism that children's lives can be made better.
