Challenge Of Nato Expansion:

NATO Expansion & Georgia Christopher M. Buck, 2022 NATO's eastward expansion following the collapse of the Soviet Union and its implications for the security environment of Europe is an issue that has current strategic implications as is evident by the current conflict between Russia and Ukraine. The final two nations from the 2008 Bucharest NATO Summit Declaration to not receive a Membership Action Plan are the former Soviet Republics of Ukraine and Georgia. In addition to their NATO membership aspirations, the nations share several commonalities including color revolutions that reshaped their political climates and invasions by Vladimir Putin's Russia. This paper examines the strategic implications of alliance membership for Georgia in the current strategic environment and concludes that membership is not in the best interest of the alliance. In order to understand the implications of Georgia's potential membership, this paper reviews the history of past NATO expansion with the collapse of the Soviet Union as a demarcation line. As with all foreign policy prescriptions, there are pros and cons, so this paper examines the implications of both sides of the membership argument. Finally, though NATO membership is not recommended at this time, the paper offers recommendations for the best way forward between the alliance and Georgia. Abstract Challenging America's Global Preeminence Thomas Ambrosio, 2017-07-05 Examining the shifts in Russian foreign policy and their potential impact on the status and influence of the United States in the international system, this outstanding volume examines why the Kremlin initially sought an alliance with the United States and the internal and external reasons why such a policy was unsustainable. In particular, it looks for an explanation for the post-Cold War vacillations in Russian foreign policy. Russia made several decisions which were perceived domestically as being unacceptable capitulations to American interests. Consequently, a pro-Western foreign policy became incompatible with Russian political culture. The rapprochement following 9/11 was destined to be temporary due to the decision by the Bush administration to invade Iraq. Contributing to the fields of international relations and comparative foreign policy, this study provides a fresh approach to the balance-of-power issue and takes into account the global repercussions of the recent war in Iraq. It will be of particular value to specialists in Russian foreign policy, international relations theory, and US foreign policy.

Apocalyptic Crimes Ronald C. Kramer, 2025-03-11 In 2023, the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists set the iconic Doomsday Clock to ninety seconds to midnight, the closest to midnight or civilization-ending apocalypse it has ever been. Designed at the onset of the Cold War amid new fears of atomic weapons, the Doomsday Clock is a symbolic countdown to annihilation. Now a generation later, the world is more vulnerable than ever to the nuclear weapons it sought to warn against. In Apocalyptic Crimes, Ronald C. Kramer reconsiders the immense danger these weapons pose to humanity, examining the use, threat to use, and continued possession of nuclear weapons from a criminological perspective. Kramer argues that any country holding on to its nuclear arsenal, including the United States, is committing a criminal act. Offering a sharp rebuke to the common claim that nuclear stockpiles serve to deter the escalation of conflict Apocalyptic Crimes emphasizes the harm caused by the mere possession of these deadly weapons It further considers the culpability of political officials acting as representatives of the state whose threatening statements about nuclear weapons contain actions or omissions that violate specific international laws But Kramer also shows how a nuclear apocalypse might be averted and offers a pathway to disarmament Through critical analysis and a specific criminology of nuclear weapons Kramer outlines the political actions necessary to rewind the Doomsday Clock and pull the world back from the brink of destruction before the clock strikes midnight NATO Expansion Pavel Felgenhauer, Dansk Udenrigspolitisk Institut, 1997

Challenges of Security Sector Governance Heiner Hänggi, Theodor Winkler, 2003

The war in Iraq in spring 2003 was a further indication of the resecuritization of international relations triggered by the terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 However the new or renewed primacy of security will be of a rather different nature as compared to the Cold War period The underlying assumption of the essays in this volume is that security issues will increasingly be approached from a governance perspective and that in this context the internal dimension of security governance security sector governance is an issue whose rapidly growing importance has not yet been duly recognized Heiner Hänggi is assistant director of the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces Theodor H Winkler is director of the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces

Tammen, 2000 By succinctly integrating power transition theory and national policy this outstanding team of scholars explores emerging issues in world politics in the 21st century including proliferation and deterrence the international political economy regional hierarchies and the role of alliances Blending quantitative and traditional analyses theory and practice history and informed predictions Power Transitions draws a map of the new world that will stimulate provoke and offer solutions Authors include Mark Abdolhohian Carole Alsharabati Brian Efirid Jacek Kugler Douglas Lemke Allan C Stam III Ronald L Tammen and A F K Organski
