Changing Nomads In A Changing World:

Changing Nomads in a Changing World Joseph Ginat,1998-01-01 Discusses how pastoralists are coping and changing as the societies they inhabit change at an unprecedented pace Nomads in a Changing World Carl Salzman,John G. Galaty,1990

Pastoral practices in High Asia Hermann Kreutzmann,2012-03-28 In conventional views pastoralism was classified as a stage of civilization that needed to be abolished and transcended in order to reach a higher level of development In this context global approaches to modernize a rural society have been ubiquitous phenomena independent of ideological contexts The 20th century experienced a variety of concepts to settle mobile groups and to transfer their lifestyles to modern perceptions Permanent settlements are the vivid expression of an ideology driven approach Modernization theory captured all walks of life and tried to optimize breeding techniques pasture utilization transport and processing concepts New insights into other aspects of pastoralism such as its role as an adaptive strategy to use marginal resources in remote locations with difficult access could only be understood as a critique of capitalist and communist concepts of modernization In recent years a renaissance of modernization theory led development activities can be observed Higher inputs from external funding fencing of pastures and settlement of pastoralists in new townships are the vivid expression of modern pastoralism in urban contexts The new modernization programme incorporates resettlement and transformation of lifestyles as to be justified by environmental pressure in order to reduce degradation in the age of climate change

Continuity and Change in Cultural Adaptation to Mountain Environments Ludomir R Lozny,2013-03-12 Up until now mountain ecosystems have not been closely studied by social scientists as they do not offer a readily defined set of problems for human exploitation as do for instance tropical forests or arctic habitats But the archaeological evidence had shown that humans have been living in this type of habitat for thousands of year From this evidence we can also see that mountainous regions are often frontier zones of competing polities and form refuge areas for dissident communities as they often are inherently difficult to control by centralized authorities As a consequence they fuel or contribute disproportionately to political violence But we are now witnessing changes and increasing vulnerability of mountain ecosystems caused by human activities Human adaptability to mountain ecosystems This volume presents an international and interdisciplinary account of the exploitation of and human adaptation to mountainous regions over time The contributions discuss human cultural responses to key physical and cultural stressors associated with mountain ecosystems such as aridity quality of soils steep slopes low productivity as well as transient phenomena such as changing weather patterns deforestation and erosion and the possible effects of climate change This volume will be of interest to anthropologists ecologists and geologists as mountainous landscapes change fast and cultures disappear and they need to be recorded and mountain regions are of interest for studies on environmental change and cultural responses of mountain populations provide clues for us all Critical to understanding mountain adaptations is our comprehension of human decision making and how people view short and long term outcomes

Arctic Pastoralist Sakha Hiroki Takakura, 2015 Presents a fascinating analysis of the horse and cattle breeding culture of the Sakha Back cover

Nomadic Societies in the Middle East and North Africa Dawn Chatty, 2018-11-12 A scholarly volume devoted to an understanding of contemporary nomadic and pastoral societies in the Middle East and North Africa This volume recognizes the variable mobile quality of the ways of life of these societies which persist in accommodating the nation state of the 20th and 21st century but remain firmly transnational and highly adaptive Composed of four sections around the theme of contestation it includes examinations of contested authority and power space and social transformation development and economic transformation and cultures and engendered spaces

Multispecies Households in the Saian Mountains Alex Oehler, Anna Varfolomeeva, 2019-12-16 Multispecies Households in the Saian Mountains brings together new ethnographic insights from the mountains of Southern Siberia and Mongolia Contributors to this edited collection examine Indigenous ideas of what it means to make a home alongside animals and spirits in changing alpine and subalpine environments Set in the Eastern Saian Mountain Region of South Central Siberia and northern Mongolia this book covers an area famous for its claim as the birthplace of Eurasian reindeer domestication Going beyond reindeer the contributors explore the less known roles of yaks horses wolves fish as well as spirits of place and many other sentient beings all of which co constitute local notions of home places The contributors extend their analysis beyond conventional categories of wild and tame in a region that is increasingly hostile toward its own inhabitants due to global efforts to create protected nature reserves Using ethnographic nuance the contributors highlight the many connections between humans and other species stressing the networks of relationships that transcend idioms of dominance or mutualism This book is recommended for students and scholars of anthropology environmental studies and Asian studies

Anderson, Kazunobu Ikeya, 2001 Taymyr Leonid Pavlovich Khlobystin, 2005 This landmark volume is the only work available in English to examine the rich prehistory of the Taymyr Peninsula the northernmost portion of Siberia at 78o north latitude Extending into the Arctic Ocean tundra covered Taymyr has been home to humans for at least 6000 years Russian archaeologist Leonid P Khlobystin worked in Taymyr for two decades In this volume he explores archaeological sites lithic technology and ceramic styles developing the first cultural chronology of the region and outlining how humans adapted to this challenging environment Major chapters are devoted to the Bronze and Iron ages and include detailed discussions of the origins of metallurgy and cultural connections Rethinking Central Asia Korkut A. Ertürk, 1999 This book re examines the place of Central Asia in world history and argues that it has to be thought of in its own terms rather than within an Eurocentric framework Two important implications follow from this work first that Eurocentric interpretations of Central Asia are at best misleading and at worst detrimental to our understanding of the region second that studying Central Asia is important not only for its own sake but also because of the contributions the region can make to comparative social theory by reflecting on its unique history in state and identity formation social structure and gender relations Attitudes Towards the Status and Rights of Palestinian Women in Israel Hunaydah Ghānim, 2005 Which Past, Whose Future? Treatments of the Past at the Start of the 21st Century, an International Perspective Sven Grabow, Daniel Hull, Emma Waterton, 2007 This book includes papers from a conference on interpretations of the treatment of the past held at the University of York in May 2005
