Narratives of Identity William Taylor,2014-10-16 The relationship between the Syrian Orthodox Church in the Ottoman Empire and the Church of England developed substantially between 1895 and 1914 as contacts between them grew As the character of this emerging relationship changed it contributed to the formation of both churches own narratives of identity The wider context in which this took place was a period of instability in the international order particularly within the Ottoman Empire culminating in the outbreak of the First World War effectively bringing this phase of sustained contact to an end

Narratives of Identity makes use of Syriac Garshuni and Arabic primary sources from Syrian Orthodox archives in Turkey and Syria alongside Ottoman documents from the Babakanlık Osmanlı Arşivi Istanbul and a range of English archival sources The preconceptions of both Churches are analysed using a philosophical framework provided by the work of Paul Ricoeur especially his concepts of significant memory anamnesis translation and the search for mutual recognition Anamnesis and translation were extensively employed in the formation of narratives of identity that needed to be understood by both Churches The identity claims of the Tractarian section of the Church of England and of the Ottoman Syrian Orthodox Church are examined using this framework The detailed content of the theological dialogue between them is then examined and placed in the context of the rapidly changing demography of eastern Anatolia the Syrian Orthodox heartland The late Ottoman state was characterised by an increased instability for all its non Muslim minorities which contributed to the perceived threats to Ottoman Syrian Orthodoxy both from within and without Finally a new teleological framework is proposed in order to better understand these exchanges taking seriously the amamnetic insights of the narratives of identity of both the Syrian Orthodox Church and the Church of England from 1895 to 1914

Rhiannon Susan R. Bockwinkel,1996-10 The Nature of Magic Susan Greenwood,2020-06-03 This book examines how and why practitioners of nature religion Western witches druids shamans seek to relate spiritually with nature through magical consciousness Magic and consciousness are concepts that are often fraught with prejudice and ambiguity respectively Greenwood develops a new theory of magical consciousness by arguing that magic ultimately has more to do with the workings of the human mind in terms of an expanded awareness than with socio cultural explanations She combines her own subjective insights gained from magical practice with practitioners in depth accounts and sustained academic theory on the process of magic She also tracks magical consciousness in philosophy myth folklore story telling and the hi tech discourse of postmodernity and asks important questions concerning nature religion s environmental credentials such as whether it as inherently ecological as many of its practitioners claim
